Kadalekai Parishe to junk plastic; Violators will lose stall space

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

MUZRAI Minister Ramalinga Reddy said that any stall found using plastic during the historical Kadalekai Parishe in Basavanagudi will be asked to vacate immediately.

He attended a review meeting on Tuesday to oversee preparations for the five-day groundnut fair 'Kadalekai Parishe 2025', where special arrangements are being made for devotees and visitors. For the first time, the fair will be held for five days instead of two, from November 17-21, at Basavanagudi's Sri Dooda Basavana Temple, and will be inaugurated by Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar on November 17. The traditional fair attracts lakhs of visitors every year, making it one of Bengaluru's largest cultural events, the minister added.

Reddy announced key decisions after the review meeting, including a complete ban on plastic plastic bags, along with a public awareness campaign using the slogan, "Bring your own bag to the Parishe."

For public convenience and safety, the GBA will ensure hygiene, sanitation, and drinking water supply, including temporary water tankers. Marshals will be deployed to manage crowds and maintain cleanliness, while additional public toilets will be installed and cleaned regularly throughout the fair.

The police will set up CCTV cameras, watchtowers, barricades, and a temporary outpost near the temple. BMTC buses will be rerouted temporarily, and dedicated entry and exit lanes will be created using barricades to prevent overcrowding. Parking for two-wheelers and heavy vehicles will be restricted near the temple.

Fire trucks, ambulances, and first-aid teams will be stationed at key locations for emergency response.

Zero waste: Over 2 lakh paper bags to make groundnut fair green affair

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

OVER 2 lakh paper bags are all set to be distributed free of cost to vendors at Kadalekai Parishe (groundnut fair) to be held from November 17 to 22 at Basavanagudi. The initiative is led by 'Zero Waste Collective', a group of like-minded citizens, NGOs and Resident Welfare Associations.

Members of the collective said they wanted to do curb the unabated use of single-use plastics at the fair, which attracts lakhs of people every year. "While Greater Bengaluru Authority and other organisations were doing their bit to curb plastic use, there was no cumulative effort and that gave birth to the Zero Waste Collective in 2023. We made 50,000 paper bags in 2023 and distributed them to vendors at Basavanagudi Kadalekai Parishe. With the help of GBA marshals, we seized over 600kg of plastic bags. As more support poured in, we scaled up our sustainability initiative in 2024, and distributed 1.5 lakh paper bags and seized over 260kg of plastics," said waste activist Plog Raja (Nagaraj), a member of the collective.

Members of the collective said this year, with more than 15 NGOs and 30 educational institutions extending support to the paper bag initiative, they have made 2.5 lakh bags.

"We have 2.5 lakh bags, of which 50,000 were distributed to vendors at Mallewaram Kadalekai Parishe. The remaining 2 lakh would be given free to vendors at Basavanagudi Parishe," Raja said.

"While we are glad that many organisations and citizens are coming forward, our broader goal is to have 'Plastic Mukta Parishe' (Plastic Free Fair), for which we need more citizens to embrace BYOC (Bring Your Own Cutlery), vendors being more sensitive and shifting the focus from paper bags to cloth bags. Together we can work towards a litter-free Bengaluru, not just for the Parishe, but across gatherings," Raja said.

Dhruv Nagarajan Koundinya, a core member of Zero Waste Collective coordinating with educational institutions to get students to make the paper bags, said the response is excellent. "When we go to schools and colleges, students are not just being taught how to make paper bags without any glue or stapler, but are given lessons on sustainability and why is it important to carry our own cloth bags wherever we go. "Parishege bannu kai cheela tanni (Come to the fair, bring your own bag) is our slogan," Dhruv said. There will be a group of volunteers actively going around the fair, distributing paper bags to the vendors, he added.

Implement SC guidelines on stray dog management: Cholan

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

FOLLOWING the Supreme Court direction stating relocation of street dogs from schools, hospitals, and other public places, the Bengaluru Central City Corporation Commissioner Rajendra Cholan has asked the officials to take effective measures to control the menace of street dogs and to ensure proper management of the stray dog population.

Addressing the Animal Birth Control/Anti-Rabies Vaccination (ABC/ARV) Progress Review and Monitoring Committee meeting held on Tuesday at the BMRDA office, the Commissioner directed officials to strictly comply with the guidelines issued by the Supreme Court regarding stray dog management and control.

Cholan also instructed to collect and submit accurate information regarding the number,

NEED CITIZEN-DRIVEN SYSTEM TO MANAGE STRAYS, SAYS BNP

AGAINST the backdrop of the Supreme Court direction on relocation of stray dogs from schools and religious places owing to public safety concerns, the Bengaluru Navanirman Party (BNP) urged that instead of issuing blanket directives, the court should mandate a structured, area-wise consultation process with residents, activists, and experts, who can jointly develop a short-term plan and then implement a sustainable long-term solution. "The Supreme Court's order only highlights what has been evident for years: the Animal Birth Control (ABC) programme in Bengaluru has not been implemented with seriousness. Targets are unclear, monitoring is weak, and the lack of proper dog shelters in every ward shows how poorly the system has been managed. A humane and scientific approach is impossible without basic infrastructure," said BNP founder and general secretary Srikanth Narasimhan. Corporations must engage with residents, maintain transparent data on sterilisation and vaccination, and fix accountability for lapses, he further added. Vishnu Reddy, pet parent and BNP zonal president (Mahadevapura), echoed Narasimhan, saying Bengaluru needs a community-driven, decentralised, and accountable model to ensure both public safety and animal welfare. Without citizen participation and transparent governance, the problem would only persist.

Retired civil engineers back tunnel road

WHILE there is widespread opposition to the tunnel road project, a team of civil engineers headed by M Lakshmana, Secretary, Institute of Engineers India (IEI), Karnataka State Centre, has extended support to the project.

"Around 25 engineers who served the government have studied the pros and cons of the project. They all have said the tunnel road will be beneficial to Bengaluru and that it would decongest the city's traffic," said Lakshmana. The engineers had gathered at IEI on Tuesday to discuss the project.

"On March 15, chief ministers of different states attended a meeting chaired by Union Transport Minister Nitin Gadkari, who spoke in favour of tunnel road projects," said Lakshmana, who is also a Congress leader from Mysuru.

BENGALURU West City Corporation Commissioner KV Rajendra on Tuesday inspected Chokkasandra Lake near Dasarahalli and the surrounding areas, and directed officials to take steps to address the issues. On Tuesday, he visited the lake, the adjoining park, and Indira Canteen and interacted with people and heard their grievances.

On complaints about the lake and park, Rajendra directed officials to solve them through effective inter-departmental coordination. The commissioner visited the pourakarmika mustering point and reviewed the attendance of auto tippers and pourakarmikas. He advised pourakarmikas to maintain their health and hygiene, and instructed officials to ensure immediate distribution of high-quality uniforms, footwear and safety equipment to them. He also visited the Indira Canteen, interacted with the public, and inspected the quality of food being served. He tasted the food and gathered feedback from citizens regarding its quality.

At TVS Cross, he inspected the ongoing white-topping roadwork and instructed officials and contractors to ensure high-quality work and complete the project efficiently within the stipulated time.

Rajendra, who also held a review meeting on programmes of the animal husbandry department and Supreme Court directive regarding street dog management, instructed officials to improve progress of sterilisation surgeries for street dogs within BWCC limits.

There are 63,340 community dogs within BWCC limits. Two ABC-ARV (Animal Birth Control and Anti-Rabies Vaccination) centres — one per zone — have a combined capacity of 171 kennels. These centres, operated by two service providers, have so far conducted 4,068 sterilisation surgeries and administered 27,581 ARV and CV vaccinations, according to the chief veterinary officer, he said.

He directed that measures be taken to enhance operational efficiency and ensure compliance with the Animal Welfare Board of India standards and SC guidelines.

Horoscopes By Holiday

HOLIDAY MATHIS

12th November: Mercury and Mars Conjunction Life is like an airport. You're responsible for your own bags. It's risky to leave them unattended and even riskier to tend to anyone else's stuff. The lighter you travel, the easier it is to keep track of your own baggage and to avoid getting mixed up in anything sketchy. The conjunction of Mercury and Mars suggests it's a great day to follow all the rules.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr 20)

Your sincere desire is to help humanity at large, and today you'll find small ways to do it. Empathy, curiosity and beauty are the tools you use to make ties in the net that connects all.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 - May 20)

You're trying to make something work, but it's uphill. Take a break. The moment you admit "this isn't it," someone new steps in with exactly what you needed. Letting go isn't giving up; it's clearing space.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 21)

Being misunderstood doesn't always mean you're doing something wrong. Today, it means you're ahead of the curve. You are thinking in a new way, and there literally isn't a shared vocabulary yet, so people can't quite "get it." Later they will.

CANCER (June 22 - July 22)

Be open to how others see you, especially new people. The people who know you best all share a similar picture of who you are, but it takes an outsider to show you a fresh version of yourself. A collaboration or encounter will be wonderful for your self-image.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22)

If you wonder whether you have grown, just look at what you are attracted to now. It's different from what you wanted before. You no longer need something, and that's because you're able to provide it for yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22)

Dreams come true every day for someone — why not you? The secret today is to aim high and accept whatever comes. Even if it's not ideal, you can probably find a way to leverage it into your next amazing opportunity.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 23)

You regularly do something that's good for you, and it's easy, too. For others it would be difficult. Give yourself props. Long ago you put in the effort to forge the habit. You earned this, so enjoy it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 21)

The only person who can make your mark is you. Others have trod on the stones where you stand, but not one could do what you will. There's a decision in the balance. Your options will come into vivid focus.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21)

Think ahead to upcoming events. How can you reduce the stress around them? What can you do proactively to ready yourself? Future you will appreciate the planning and effort you put in today.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19)

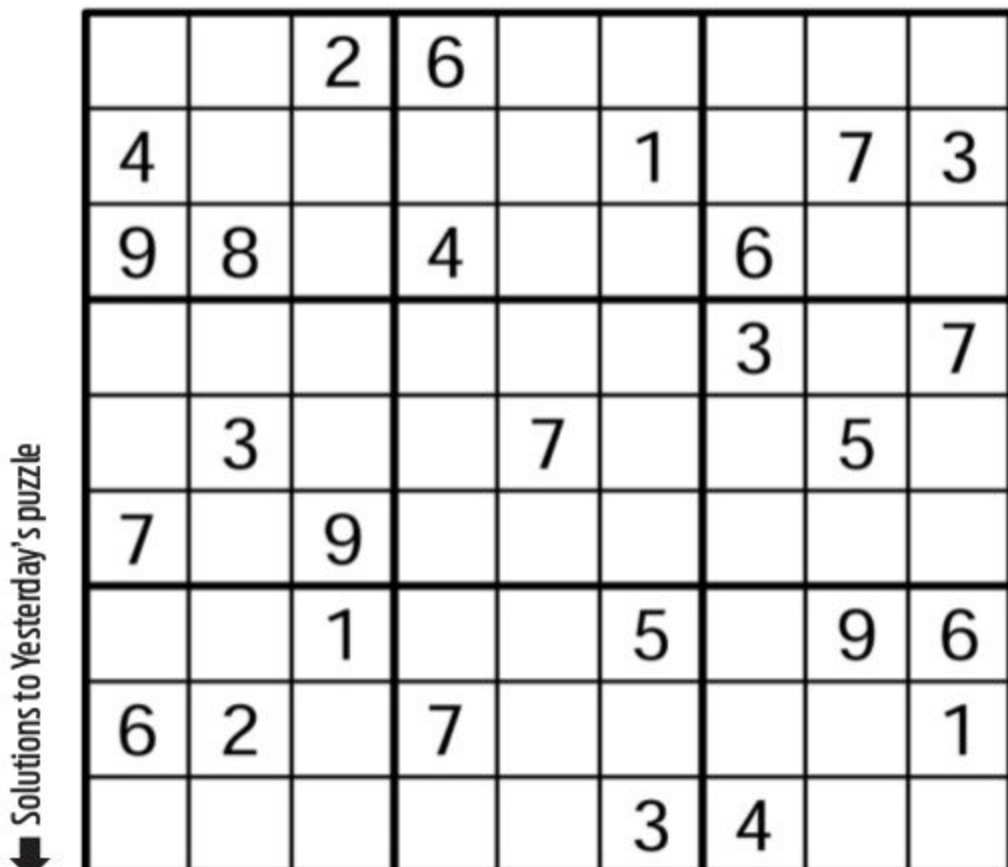

To consciously select what (and whom) you follow is a freedom that most people throughout human history didn't have. Stay aware and in control of your own attention, and don't let anyone manipulate it away from your desired investment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)

You say no to something that doesn't feel right, and that frees up availability for something wonderful — work, or a relationship that's an excellent match for you. Your energy attracts compatible people.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - Mar 20)

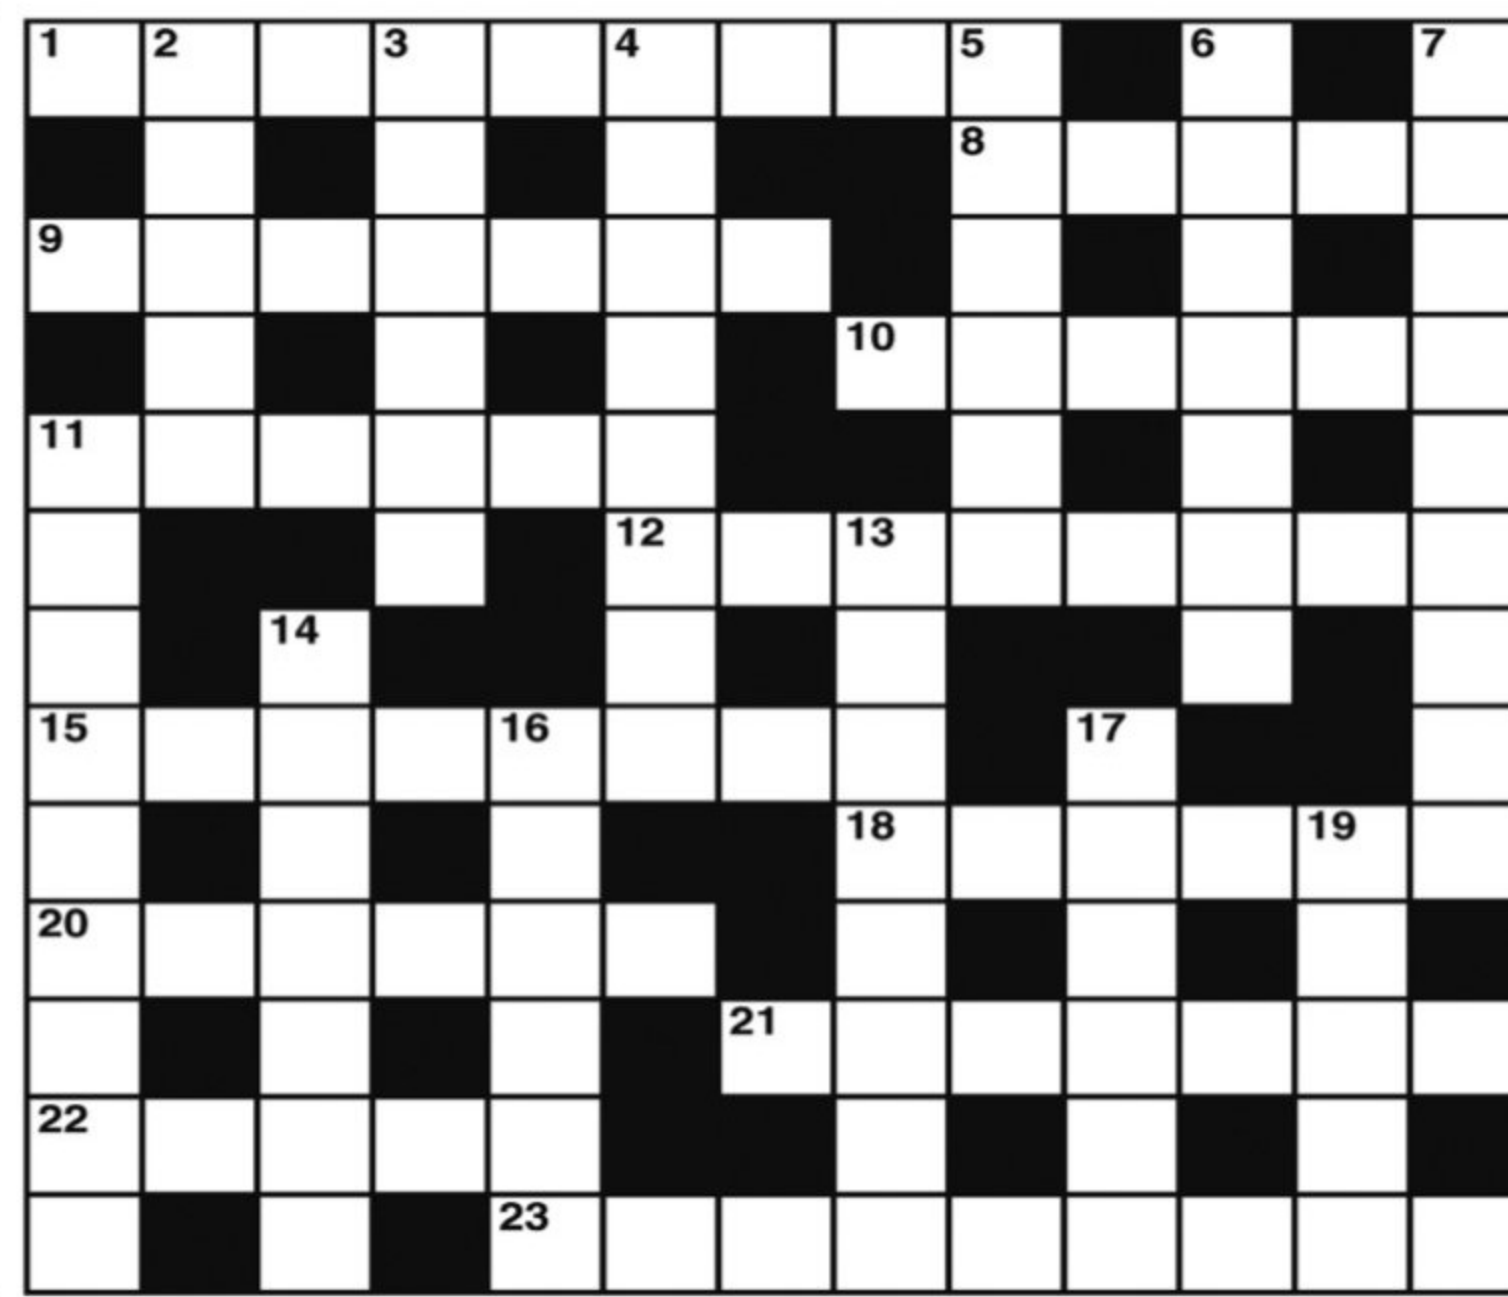

Your message will make a difference, but only if it's truly heard. Everyone around listens better when that's modeled by a "leader." Small groups where people will have to compete for your focus are advantageous.

FOLLOWING the Delhi blast, a statewide high alert has been sounded since Monday night. Police across Karnataka have conducted inspections with bomb detection and dog squads in high-footfall areas such as bus stands, railway stations, airports, Metro stations, hotels and lodges, malls, religious places, commercial hubs and other public spaces. Check-points have been set up, and vehicles are being thoroughly inspected.

Bengaluru City Police Commissioner Seemant Kumar Singh told reporters that all DCPs and their staff carried out inspections on Monday night, and these will continue on Tuesday as well. "All preventive and precautionary measures have been taken," he said.

Meanwhile, Kempegowda International Airport (KIA) issued a travel advisory, urging passengers to arrive well in time. Authorities said that heightened security checks may take additional time, and passengers are advised to plan accordingly and stay in contact with their respective airlines for updates.

Uttara Kannada, which has several vital installations such as Seabird Naval Base and Kaiga Nuclear Power Station, has been on high alert. Ports, temple towns like Gokarna and Murudeshwar, visited by devotees from every nook and corner of the country, are under watch.

Security arrangements at railway stations under South Western Railway (SWR) have

MULTI-CRORE FRAUD

Sub-registrar, realtor fabricate papers, cheat land owner of crores

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE sleuths of the Central Crime Branch (CCB) police have arrested a sub-registrar and a real estate firm owner for allegedly fabricating documents related to 12 residential sites and cheating a landowner of several crores of rupees.

The accused have been identified as Kumari Roopa (35), a Sub-Registrar, and Naveen, a real estate company owner. The police had earlier arrested five others in connection with the case.

According to the police, the complainant, a resident of Parappana Agrahara, had entered into an oral agreement with Naveen and others in 2019 to develop residential sites on his land, where 107 plots were formed. However, Naveen, in collusion with another individual, allegedly misled the complainant by claiming that he had been authorised to sell the sites.

They reportedly took the complainant to the Sub-Registrar's office under the pretext of registering a single plot in his presence, but instead forged sale deeds for 12 sites and sold them to unsuspecting buyers.

The fraud came to light when the complainant later discovered that multiple sites had been sold without his knowledge or consent. A case was initially registered at Parappana Agrahara Police Station in August 2022 and was later transferred to the CCB's Organised Crime Wing in January 2024.

Following investigation, the CCB arrested the duo in the second week of November.

Cong seeks Shah's resignation, BJP blames GOP's appeasement politics

A complete failure of those entrusted with our internal security, says Priyank Kharge | Modi and Shah are striving to remove terrorism from its root, says BJP's CT Ravi

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A day after a high-intensity explosion in a car near the iconic Red Fort in Delhi claimed 12 lives and injured several more, there was a war of words between the Congress and BJP in Karnataka.

Karnataka RDPR and IT/BT Minister Priyank Kharge demanded that Prime Minister Narendra Modi sack Union Home Minister Amit Shah for failing to prevent the blast. "There has perhaps never been a Home Minister in India whose tenure has seen so many breakdowns of law and order and yet continues to hold office without taking responsibility," Priyank said, hitting out at Shah. "This is a complete failure of those entrusted with our internal security," Priyank said, adding that instead of demanding accountability, the BJP's entire online toolkit is in overdrive diverting and deflecting. "The only reason why the Home Minister has not been shown the door is because he has compelling intelligence on Prime Minister Modi. If there is truly nothing to hide, then let the Prime Minister show it. Take action. Hold the Home Minister accountable and sack him," Priyank added.

On the other hand, BJP leaders hit out at the Karnataka Congress government and raised the issue of convicts in Bengaluru Central Prison getting luxury treatment.

Leader of the Opposition in the Assembly R Ashoka said that more highly educated people ple from the Muslim community were becoming terrorists. "Such things are happening because of appeasement to the Muslim community for the sake of coming to power. Even in Parappana Agrahara, terrorists are using mobiles due to Congress' mistake. Congress leaders should admit such failures and resign," he said.

Meanwhile, Deputy Chief Minister and KPCC president DK Shivakumar said that Monday's blast would not have occurred if "we had woken up after the Pulwama attack. I will not blame anyone because blame doesn't solve anything. The only solution is for the government to protect people and save its face. We need to save lives now," he said.

Congress MLC BK Hariprasad alleged that the incident exposes the failure of Home Minister Amit Shah in maintaining internal security and protecting innocent lives. "India has repeatedly witnessed such tragic incidents under this regime. Every time, BJP leaders conveniently shift blame or remain silent, betraying the nation's trust. When in opposition, they would stage protests and demand resignations after every attack. Why this deafening silence? The Home Minister must take moral responsibility and resign immediately," Hariprasad demanded.

Health and Family Welfare Minister Dinesh Gundu Rao urged Modi and Shah to rise above the mindset of the Bihar elections and focus on the investigation.

Meanwhile, Ashoka also demanded that Karnataka Home Minister Dr G Parameshwara and the police visit public places and conduct inspections to instill confidence in people.

BJP MLC CT Ravi hit out at Priyank Kharge and said those who provide mobile phones to jail inmates and terrorists are incompetent. "Those who respond through surgical strikes and Operation Sindoor are not incompetent," he said. Ravi said Modi and Shah are striving to remove terrorism from its root. "We know what happened when the Parliament was attacked. Should we provide the list of lawyers who represented Afzal Guru, who attacked the Parliament?" he asked.

CM: Delhi blast could impact Bihar elections

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mysuru/Bengaluru

CM Siddaramaiah said on Tuesday that the Delhi blast could impact Assembly polls in Bihar and go against the BJP. The CM's remarks drew sharp criticism from the Opposition BJP, which accused Siddaramaiah of politicising the terror attack in which innocent people lost their lives.

Responding to a question whether the Delhi blast will have an impact on the Bihar elections, the CM said there is such a possibility, and it could go against the BJP. The CM was addressing a press conference in Mysuru.

The CM said such incidents are tragic and the loss of innocent lives is unfortunate. "Let the Union Government investigate and respond. I have sympathy towards the departed souls. I don't want to say anything as it should be investigated first," he said, responding to a question whether there was an intelligence failure.

BJP leader and LoP in the Council Chalavadi Narayanaswamy said Siddaramaiah must apologise to the people of the state for his insensitive remarks. The BJP accused the CM of trying to politicise the issue. "The CM should not have mixed it with politics or elections. I strongly condemn it," he said.

Released 150 tmcft excess Cauvery water to TN: Siddu

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mysuru

KARNATAKA Chief Minister Siddaramaiah on Tuesday informed that the state has released nearly 150 tmcft of water in excess to Tamil Nadu this year. "Due to excess rain, 150 tmcft of excess water has reached Tamil Nadu in addition to the 177.25 tmcft as mandated in the final verdict," Siddaramaiah told reporters in Mysuru.

The CM also gave more push for the Mekedatu balancing reservoir across the Cauvery in Kanakapura taluk, claiming that the project in no way will harm the interest of neighbouring Tamil Nadu.

Siddaramaiah further said that a joint survey on crop loss has been conducted, and districts like Bidar, Kalaburgi, Belagavi, Gadag, and Dharwad have reported more crop loss, and an aerial survey was also conducted. Instructions have been given to credit the compensation for crop loss to the affected farmers soon, he said.

CM to visit Delhi on Nov 15

CM Siddaramaiah said that he is scheduled to visit New Delhi on November 15 on the invitation to a programme by former Union Minister and leading advocate Kapil Sibal. The CM, however, said he is planning to return to Bengaluru on the same day.

On the cabinet reshuffle, Siddaramaiah said he has sought time from LoP in Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi. "If he gives time, I will speak to him," Siddaramaiah said, adding that he will return to Bengaluru the same day if the Congress high command does not give him time.

BJP MLCs gear up to put govt on the mat in winter session

ENS @ Bengaluru

OPPOSITION BJP MLCs in Karnataka are preparing to take on the State Government during the winter session of the state legislature, which is likely to begin from December 8. On Tuesday, BJP MLCs met in Bengaluru to discuss issues they plan to raise. BJP MLC and Chief Whip of the Opposition in the Council N Ravi Kumar said they discussed problems faced by farmers, law and order, and the government's failure to make appointments to the universities. Development has halted in the state while the Chief Minister, Deputy Chief Minister, and ministers focus on internal issues, Ravi Kumar added.

LoP in the Council Chalavadi Narayanaswamy said Council Chairman Basavaraj Horatti had stated that the session is likely to start from December 8, though the government is yet to take a decision. He said the government has failed on all fronts, including the development of North Karnataka. The government provided some relief to sugarcane farmers after the BJP took up their issue, and it is yet to provide compensation to farmers for crop loss due to heavy rains, he said.

Activists stage a dharna in front of Suvarna Vidhana Soudha in Belagavi on Tuesday

Forums demand special package for Kittur K'taka

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Belagavi

SEVERAL organisations, including Uttara Karnataka Horata Samiti and Uttara Karnataka Vikas Vedithe, staged a protest in front of the Suvarna Vidhana Soudha in Belagavi on Tuesday demanding comprehensive development of North Karnataka. They urged the State Government to announce a special development package for Kittur Karnataka on the lines of Kalyana Karnataka and to officially declare Belagavi the second capital of Karnataka.

They insisted on constituting a Kittur Karnataka Development Authority to accelerate growth in the seven districts of the region.

They also demanded that the government secretariat departments and state-level offices be permanently set up at Suvarna Vidhana Soudha to ensure year-round administrative activity instead of limiting its use to the winter session. They further urged the government to hold at least two to three cabinet meetings annually in Belagavi.

To boost economic growth and create jobs, they stressed the importance of establishing an international airport in Belagavi and developing an industrial and IT ecosystem to benefit skilled youth. They warned that if the government fails to include North Karnataka's development roadmap in the winter session scheduled in December, massive protests would be launched during the session.

Public hearing on surcharge for open access power

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

THE last date to raise objections to the Draft Electricity (Amendment) Bill, 2025, is now slated for November 30.

One of the proposals by the Ministry of Power is to provide open access network to other distribution licensees in their areas of supply by paying wheeling charge.

Karnataka Electricity Regulatory Commission (KERC) is holding a public hearing on November 13, seeking suggestions on the proposal made by Electricity Supply Corporations Limited (ESCOMs) for levying surcharge on open access consumers.

The Ministry has proposed to exempt distribution licensees from the present binding of the Universal Service Obligation (USO) to supply electricity to all consumers, including those eligible for open access (above 1MW). This is aimed to ensure uninterrupted power supply. State Electricity Regulatory Commissions may designate one of the licensees to supply power at a premium over the cost of supply, if other arrangements fail.

A senior energy department official said that as open access power generation has gained popularity any amendments will only make matters complicated, especially when the state is implementing Gruha Jyothi scheme.

Experts have also raised objections to the proposed amendment in the manner in which pending amount is recovered from consumers. Energy expert MG Prabhakar said it has been suggested that the licensees shall not cut off electricity supply during the recovery period. He said that ESCOMs have adopted varied interpretations of billing and audit provisions, leading to litigation. These include demands raised under labels such as audit short claim, billing errors, back billing and meter not recording, to name a few. He stressed the need for procedural integrity and accountability in revenue collection.

The Ministry has also proposed to make it mandatory for Electricity Regulatory Commissions to determine cost-re flective tariffs. The draft bill says state governments will continue to have flexibility to support specific consumer categories by providing advance subsidies, ensuring that no consumer group is unduly burdened.

Experts said tariffs should be revised factoring in consumers' views, various subsidies and schemes by state governments. One of the proposals is for Energy Storage Systems (ESS) that will allow storage of electrical energy in any form for a period of time and delivering it as and when power is required.

The State Regulatory Commissions are to be designated as the Appellate Authority for resolving inter-authority disputes. Prabhakar said that Regulatory Commissions are well-positioned to adjudicate such matters.

'Prisons aren't police stns': Appointment of IPS officer as chief superintendent criticised

RAKSHITH GOWDA @ Bengaluru

THE appointment of an Indian Police Service (IPS) officer as Chief Superintendent of Bengaluru Central Prison has drawn sharp criticism from prison officials, who argue that the move undermines the correctional purpose of the prison system and demoralise the staff.

"Prisons are not police stations. They need reform-oriented administrators who understand rehabilitation, counselling, and inmate welfare," said a senior official from the Prison and Correctional Services Department, requesting anonymity. The officer added that while a police officer may temporarily address issues, such appointments will not solve the systemic lapses in prison management.

On Monday, Karnataka Home Minister DR G Parameshwara appointed 2019-batch IPS officer Anshu Kumar as Chief Superintendent of the prison. The minister also suspended two prison officials and transferred the then chief superintendent following viral videos showing preferential treatment to certain inmates, which raised questions about security lapses and irregularities inside the prison.

Another prison official pointed

ed out that if the intention is to curb corruption, it is important to remember that even police personnel have been caught taking bribes. "The real issue lies in managing hardened criminals, the overcrowded undertrial inmates population and other management works. The department is understaffed and burdened with inmates far beyond its capacity," the officer said. He further added that with the appointment of an IPS officer as chief superintendent, career prison officials may feel demoralised.

'Chalk & cheese difference between police, prison duties'

Former DG&IGP ST Ramesh said that the appointment of an IPS officer is not an appropriate move. "A police officer is not a prison official and vice versa.

A police officer is not trained in prison management. The difference between police duties and those of prison management is like chalk and cheese. The police officers are trained for investigation, redressing public grievances, maintaining law and order in the society, traffic management and VIP security while prison officers are responsible for managing prisons and prison inmates, producing undertrials in court, rehabilitation of convicts, etc," he said.

Appointing someone with limited experience in the IPS to manage the central prison is neither desirable nor a long-term solution, he said. "Instead, providing better training to prison officials, improving their morale, and strengthening their self-esteem would help in better prison management. These are of course, long-term solutions," he said.

Ramesh stressed that it is different when a senior IPS officer with over 25 years of experience, with greater exposure to other government departments, including prisons, is appointed. He has by then acquired the experience to head the Prison department. But the fact remains that an IPS officer is not trained in or for prison management, he added.

2021 U'khand HC order

In 2021, the Uttarakhand High Court stated police personnel cannot be appointed as jail superintendents. It said that "the motive of the police is not to reform or rehabilitate, but to prevent the occurrence of crime and to punish the wrongdoer. Therefore, much training of police is done keeping in mind a different purpose, and from that prescribed by law. Thus, there is a big difference in philosophy that allows police administration and prison administration."

WORLD PNEUMONIA DAY

Docs flag vaccine gaps as pneumonia cases surge

Poor air quality after festivals irritates lungs, lowering immunity

GAYATHRI M KURUP @Bengaluru

ON the occasion of World Pneumonia Day on Wednesday, paediatric and pulmonary specialists across Bengaluru have urged parents to prioritise timely vaccination, stressing that flu and pneumococcal shots remain the strongest protection against severe respiratory illness in children. Doctors warned that vaccine hesitancy and missed booster doses, especially after the first year of life, are leaving many children vulnerable to complications.

“Vaccinated children have far better protection. A vaccinated child may only have a mild episode manageable at home, while an unvaccinated child often ends up needing hospital or even ICU care,” said Dr Anupama Menon, Consultant, Pediatric Pulmonology, Rainbow Children’s Hospital. “Parents vaccinate religiously in the first year, but after that, they slip. That gap directly increases the severity of infections,” said Dr Srikanta JT, Consultant – Paediatric Interventional Pulmonology, Aster RV Hospital. This year, doctors across the city reported significant viral surges.

“In the last two to three months, we saw one influenza wave and one RSV wave, both causing several cases of viral pneumonia among children,” said Dr Tejaswi Chandra, Pediatric Pulmonologist, Aster Women & Children, Bengaluru. “The post-festival pollution combined with crowd gatherings definitely triggered a surge,” said Dr Menon.

Post-COVID, doctors say pneumonia patterns have become less predictable. “Seasonal trends are no longer specific. Weather fluctuations are constant, so we were seeing a persistent baseline of pneumonia cases throughout the year,” explained Dr Srikanta.

Alongside viral infections, experts cautioned against both overuse and delayed use of antibiotics. “For viral pneumonias, irrational antibiotic use is rampant. But in true bacterial pneumonia, delaying treatment for four or five days can cause serious complications. The key is recognising the difference early,” said Dr Tejaswi.

Air pollution and overcrowding, especially after festivals, aggravate respiratory illnesses.

“After Deepavali, we saw children admitted purely because of poor air quality, with cough, wheezing, and even needing oxygen,” added Dr Tejaswi.

He also flagged the rise in infections among toddlers attending preschools. “Children under two are entering crowded environments before their immunity is ready, so infections just keep circulating,” he said. While severe multi-organ complications remain rare, pulmonologists said they can occur in advanced cases. “Severe pneumonia can affect the kidneys or heart, especially in adults or those with comorbidities,” noted Dr Sudharshan KS, Consultant Pulmonologist, TriLife Hospital. They emphasised the same core message, prevention is key. “Vaccinate, mask up on high pollution days, practise hand hygiene, and keep sick children home. Simple prevention goes a long way in protecting young lungs,” concluded Dr Sudharshan.

Collins’ Devanahalli centre to create 2K jobs

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Siddaramaiah on Tuesday inaugurated the operations centre of Collins Aerospace at the KIADB Aerospace Park in Devanahalli, marking a major boost to Karnataka’s aerospace and defence ecosystem.

The 26-acre centre is expected to generate around 2,000 high-skilled jobs in research and development (R&D) and advanced manufacturing. The centre, established with an investment of USD 25 million (approx. Rs 200 crore), will focus on R&D and advanced manufacturing. Siddaramaiah said the centre will help further strengthen Bengaluru’s position as the country’s aerospace hub.

He said the Karnataka Aerospace & Defence Policy (2022-27) aims at attracting investments amounting to Rs 45,000 crore and generating 60,000 jobs. To enable this, the state is developing aerospace and defence parks in Bengaluru, Belagavi, Mysuru, Tumakuru and Chamarajanagar, offering plug-and-play infrastructure to reduce setup time for industries.

Bengaluru has earned global recognition as a centre of knowledge and technology and has become the “workplace of aerospace experts,” said Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar.

The city continues to attract the best talent in advanced technological fields, he said.

Referring to Bengaluru’s growing prominence in the aerospace sector, he said, “The state government will extend all support to companies working in this ecosystem.”

Industries Minister MB Patil said this is Collins’ first facility in India to receive Production-Linked Incentive (PLI) approvals. With India’s aviation market projected to become the world’s third-largest by 2032, and the maintenance, repair and overhaul (MRO) industry estimated to grow from $1.2 billion to $4.6 billion, Collins’ expansion will play a crucial role in driving employment and innovation.

Venky alleges mismanagement in KSCA; to contest for president’s post

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

FORMER Indian cricketer Venkatesh Prasad, along with members of his team “Game Changers”, has accused the Karnataka State Cricket Association (KSCA) of large-scale mismanagement under former cricketer Brijesh Patel. Prasad announced his candidature for the president’s post in the upcoming KSCA elections on November 30, with Sujith Somasundar contesting for vice president and Vinay Mruthyunjaya for secretary. He received the backing of former cricketers Anil Kumble and Javagal Srinath.

He alleged that Brijesh who earlier served as KSCA’s honorary secretary, has been de facto running the association for over two decades, barring the 2010-13 period when Kumble, Prasad and their team were in charge. “They talk about saving hundreds of crores of rupees, but that is BCCI grant money meant to be invested in state cricket. What is the point in boasting about saving it?” Prasad questioned. He also expressed disappointment over M Chinnas-wamy Stadium not getting any matches for the upcoming ICC Men’s T20 World Cup in February 2026, calling it a “fall from grace” due to poor management.

Highlighting the condition of cricket facilities, Somasundar pointed to the KSCA Cricket Ground in Alur and academies in Belagavi that have fallen into disrepair. Another major issue raised was the stampede outside Chinnaswamy Stadium on June 4. The team alleged that four members of the managing committee, who had stepped down citing moral grounds after the incident, are now contesting key posts in the upcoming elections. “The entire committee should have resigned after the stampede. Instead, four of them are back in the fray. They are the ‘stampede committee’, not the managing committee,” Mruthyunjaya said.

Kumble criticised the lack of a Karnataka representative in the World Cup-winning India Women’s Cricket Team, calling it a reflection of the state’s declining cricket infrastructure that “needs a serious upgrade.”

Mamatheya Thottilu gets only infant in first year

RASHMI PATIL @ Bengaluru

WITH a view to encourage safe surrendering of infants and to prevent people from abandoning them in dustbins, garbage or drains, the District Children Protection Unit is encouraging the 'Mamatheya Thottilu' programme.

The programme allows the parents of an infant to leave it in the cradles placed at 42 locations in Bengaluru city without the fear of being caught by officials or even police.

Meenakshi S Katedi, District Child Protection Officer in Bengaluru East, said, "The purpose of Mamatheya Thottilu programme or 'cradle of compassion' is to ensure that the child is not harmed as it would be when abandoned at random places. It also ensures that every abandoned child enters the adoption system legally and ethically. In most POCSE cases, girls realise too late that they are pregnant after sexual abuse or having unprotected sex. They often tend to abandon the child, fearing police action and punishment."

She added, "Such children can be left in these cradles. They are placed at seven locations in the east zone of Bengaluru with no CCTV monitoring. The locations include C V Raman General Hospital, the Primary Health Centres in Varthur and Avalahalli, St Michael's Home Convent, Shishu Mandir and Taluk hospital and DCPO in K R Puram. The mothers can also call 1098 or 112, and we will make sure that the infant is collected confidentially. We lay more stress on child protection than child adoption now."

Haleema, the project director at the Directorate of Child Protection, said 25 infants were found abandoned in public places across the State in the past year alone.

"The Mamatheya Thottilu programme has completed a year now. So far, we have received only one infant. The programme also facilitates safe surrender of differently abled children, so that they can be taken care at institutions run by the government, as well as NGOs. There are 21 government-run child adoption agencies in 21 districts and 24 privately run specialised adoption agencies operated by NGOs. This financial year, we have so far facilitated the adoption of 190 children, and the number is likely to go up in the remaining four months. Two children are eligible for inter-country (foreign) adoption, and the process is in progress."

Karnataka is not the first state to implement the Mamatheya Thottilu programme. Tamil Nadu was the first, followed by Kerala, and then it was adopted in other states, including Karnataka. Child rights protection experts said Tamil Nadu launched the programme after cases of female infanticide started rising in Uslamapatti.

Child rights activist Nagasimha G Rao said, "There are grey areas, as this may encourage abandonment of female children. However, instead of being killed or discriminated against in families by their biological parents, these girls will at least be taken into good care in child care institutions and put up for adoption. They will grow up in a respectable family and get a good education."

YATHIRAJU @ Bengaluru

UPA Lokayukta Justice KN Phaneendra took suo moto cognisance of TNIE report 'Farmers deprived of dividing land among siblings' dated October 18 and issued notice to the Tahsildar and Assistant Director of Land Records of Channapattana in Bengaluru Urban district.

The story highlighted that several farmers cultivating around 140 acres in three villages in Channapattana taluk are unable to partition their lands among legal heirs, transfer or sell those lands, as they are not able to get 'phodi and durasth' of the properties since the time of their forefathers.

Stating that most of the lands were purchased at an auction in 1928, and some were granted by the government under schemes for the downtrodden or landless, the farmers say their names reflect in RTCs, and the entire parcel of land is transferred from generation to generation on 'Pauti Khata' but they are not able to partition it among family members owing to lack of 'phodi and durasth'.

Referring to the report in TNIE and www.kannadaprabha.com, Justice Phaneendra said every citizen has a right to hold, transfer and sell property as per Article 300A of the Constitution. Though it is not a fundamental right, no one can deprive a citizen of such a right. Also, such a right can be taken away legally, but not forcefully.

However, several farmers in Matthikere, Sankalagere and Belakere of Channapattana taluk have been deprived of their right to partition, sell or transfer about 140 acres, though they are lawful owners, because no original documents were available with the revenue department. Therefore, officials are duty-bound to take action by providing the necessary documents to enable 'phodi and durasth' of the lands owned by the farmers, he observed.

Further, he said that despite the farmers having approached the authorities, officials failed to address their problems, which shows dereliction of duty.

Taking the news report as a source to exercise powers under Section 7(2) and 9(3)(a) of the Act, he said: "I am passing the order to register suo motu proceedings to check whether there is dereliction of duty on the part of the officials. Accordingly, I have issued directions to make Girish, tahsildar, and Prakyathkumar, Assistant Director of Land Records, Channapattana taluk, as respondents."

Activists not to end Sharavathi protest

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Shivamogga

THE protests against the implementation of the Sharavathi Pumped Storage Project (PSPS) will persist until the state government issues an official gazette notification to abandon it, said Maruthi Gurugi, chairman of Sharavathi Ulisi Horata Okkuta (North Canara).

Addressing the media at a joint press conference organised by the Okkuta and the Parisarasakkagi Navu on Tuesday, Gurugi said the world will thrive if the Western Ghats endure, and nobody has the right to infringe upon nature.

Gurugi said the Central government's decision to suspend the PSPS was a mere facade to distract the people's attention from the issue.

Brushing aside the claims of the Karnataka Power Corporation Limited (KPCL) that the PSPS is safe and environmentally friendly as misleading, he said the project would necessitate the felling of countless trees.

Gurugi also pointed out the contradiction in the government's actions. He said that while the government receives funding from UNESCO to safeguard the Western Ghats, it simultaneously claims that the water from the Sharavathi River flowing into the Arabian Sea is waste. "This so-called 'wastewater' is vital for the survival of aquatic life. The government has so far received Rs 12,000 crore from UNESCO," he said.

Former Lokayukta N Santhosh Hegde said the drilling of a 1,600-metre tunnel in the Sharavathi Valley poses a grave threat to the region.

Ex-TTD officer grilled for 11 hours

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Tirupati

THE Supreme Court-appointed Special Investigation Team (SIT), led by the CBI, has ramped up its investigation into the Tirumala Tirupati Devasthanams (TTD) Laddu ghee adulteration case, uncovering a conspiracy involving multiple suppliers and officials.

Following the arrest of Ajay Kumar Suganda (A-16), a Delhi-based trader, the SIT summoned former TTD Additional Executive Officer A V Dharma Reddy for questioning at its Alipiri office in Tirupati on Tuesday.

Dharma Reddy appeared before the SIT and was questioned for 11 hours in two spells (9 am to 2 pm and again from 3 p.m. to 9 pm) by CBI DIG Murali Rambha and his team. Officials reportedly presented documentary evidence and questioned him extensively about the ghee procurement tender process. Dharma Reddy left the premises without interacting with the media. The SIT has also issued a notice to former TTD Chairman YV Subba Reddy, requesting his presence for inquiry on November 13. However, Subba Reddy responded that he would be attending a Parliamentary Standing Committee meeting in Lucknow from November 13 to 15 and requested a one-week extension, stating he would be available at his residence in Hyderabad thereafter. In Nellore, arguments were heard in the ACB court regarding the custody petition of K.

Chinna Appanna, who is now in judicial remand. Assistant Public Prosecutor Jayashakar and CBI counsel presented the merits of the SIT's custody request before the bench. In a remand report submitted through East Police, the SIT detailed the role of Pomil Jain and Vipin Jain, Directors of M/s Bhole Baba Organic Dairy Milk Pvt Ltd, who allegedly manufactured adulterated ghee at their Bhagwanpur plant near Roorkee, Uttarakhand. Instead of using pure milk, the ghee was reportedly blended with palm oil, palm kernel oil, and palmolein sourced from Budge Budge Company, Kolkata, along with chemicals like beta-carotene, acetic acid ester, and artificial flavor to pass lab tests and mimic aroma.

HC grants bail to former Naxal Laxmi Poojarthi

Bengaluru: "Records show that the State government, satisfied with the appellant's intention to surrender to join the mainstream, has even declared to provide her a monetary package of Rs 7.5 lakh, monthly financial aid of Rs 5,000, skill-building programmes etc, on her surrender. Still, the state had opposed the application before the trial court," the Karnataka High Court observed. The division bench of Justice KS Mudagal and Justice Venkatesh Naik T made these observations, granting bail to ex-Naxal Laxmi Poojarthi from Andhra Pradesh, while also setting aside orders passed by a trial court in Udupi, rejecting bail for her in two cases. Before the High Court, the additional state public prosecutor submitted that in view of the government scheme, the bail application may be considered. Counsel for Laxmi submitted that financial assistance assured to her is also not paid. She has children, and she and her family has settled down in Anantpur. Two cases were registered against Laxmi in Shankarnarayana police station in 2007 and 2008, under UAPA, Explosives Substances Act and Arms Act. Laxmi later, she filed the bail applications before the trial court in Udupi, which rejected them, as the state objected to granting bail. On February 2, 2025, Laxmi surrendered before the District Committee for Rehabilitation of Naxalites. She was taken into custody, and later she filed bail applications before the trial court, which were opposed by the state on the grounds that she had indulged in unlawful activities and it was rejected. The charges made against her were being a member of a Naxal group, affixing handbills and banners containing intimidating messages against Naxals and government. She was also accused of forming an unlawful assembly, armed with guns, trespassing into the house of Narayana Naik assaulting him.

Parachute airdrop test for Gaganyaan done

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

INDIAN Space Research Organisation (ISRO) recently completed the main parachute test for the Gaganyaan mission- the crewed mission as a part of the qualification process. The test was conducted on November 3 at the Babina Field Firing Range (BFFR) in Jhansi, Uttar Pradesh, which is a part of the ongoing series of Integrated Main Parachute Airdrop Tests (IMAT).

The main parachutes are deployed in a step-by-step process where the parachute will open partially, which is called reefing, and then will fully open after a predetermined period, known as disreefing.

This process is carried out using a pyro device.

The uniqueness in the test was one of the possible extreme scenarios of delay in the disengagement between the two main parachutes. "The test evaluated the system's structural integrity and load distribution under asymmetric disengaging conditions—one of the most critical load scenarios expected during actual mission descent," ISRO said.

For the test, a simulated mass equivalent to the crew module was dropped from an altitude of 2.5 km using the Indian Air Force's IL-76 aircraft. "The test article achieved a stable descent and soft landing, validating the robustness of the parachute design," ISRO noted.

Lokayukta raps govt over Yadgir water crisis

ENS @ Bengaluru

Lokayukta Justice BS Patil castigated the state government for its failure to provide pure drinking water to Yadgir district despite spending huge amount in setting up water purification units in 471 locations.

The Lokayukta pointed out that 247 units are not working. He charged the government with utter negligence. He said it is disappointing that the concerned department, the ZP have been negligent to people's needs.

On Tuesday, the ZP CEO of Yadgir failed to appear in person and submit the action taken report, in compliance with the repeated directions and a summons issued to him on September 10 by the Lokayukta. The Lokayukta had marked a copy of the order to the principal secretary of the rural development and panchayat raj and the chief secretary. The Lokayukta observed that the conduct of the authorities prima facie amounted to dereliction of duty.

The Yadgir ZP CEO deputed an executive engineer, Basavaraj, along with a letter addressed to the scrutiny officer. The letter stated that 471 pure drinking water units were handed over to panchayats. Every month Rs 3,000 is given to panchayats, apart from instructing them to utilise the amount of the 15th Finance Scheme and also out of the funds collected from taxes.

It was also stated in the letter that Rs 10 crore and Rs 79 lakh is demanded from the state government for carrying out the repairs of the drinking water units, and a sum of Rs 18.33 crore is sought from the Kalyana Karnataka Region Development Board.

ECI MUST ADDRESS TRUST DEFICIT WITH TRANSPARENCY

THE credibility of India's elections is the strength of its democracy. Rahul Gandhi's persistent assault on the impartiality of the Election Commission of India has managed to sow a seed of suspicion about the integrity of one of the principal pillars of that credibility. As the Congress leader continues with his campaign against alleged 'vote chori'—something that became an issue at the just-concluded Bihar polls—the onus is squarely on the ECI to address the trust deficit. Mere dismissal of the diligently-gathered accusations is utterly inadequate in countering the allegations of fraud and restoring the public's trust in the electoral system.

Rahul's latest presentation was based on the 2024 Haryana assembly election, where he alleged the BJP won with the help of 25 lakh 'fake votes'. While claiming that one in eight voters in the state was fake, he showed the picture of one woman that allegedly appeared 223 times on the voter list; another woman, apparently a Brazilian model, appeared 22 times under different names at 10 booths. At an age when election controllers around the world are considering 'pre-bunking'—publishing factual information before disinformation is aired—the ECI has chosen an ostrich-like posture.

To the accusation Gandhi levelled in August citing data from Karnataka's Mahadevapura, the ECI responded by asking him to register a formal complaint. This time, its defence was that no appeal had been filed against the rolls and no multiple voting flagged during the election. Fair enough. But how does one explain 223 listings for one voter? Whether flagged in time or not, such gross anomalies punch holes in the touted impregnable fairness of the election process. The 'vote chori' campaign may seem like a show with little political impact; however, the concerns raised deserve to be dispelled through sound answers and actions.

If not satisfactorily addressed, it will remain an issue at the upcoming elections. A recent survey that flagged a sharp drop in public trust in the ECI underscores the need to protect the constitutional body's image as an independent and impartial entity. That deficit is the reason the special intensive revisions, aimed at restoring the integrity of electoral rolls, have come under a shadow. The honour of being the world's largest democracy also comes with an enormous responsibility of safeguarding the credibility of the election process. That task belongs mostly to the ECI.

INDIAN FOOTBALL A MESS, PLAYERS IN TOUGH CORNER

HERE is no ambiguity that Indian football is in deep trouble. The Indian national team failed to qualify for the Asian Football Confederation Cup and plummeted to one of the lowest world rankings in recent times. To make things worse, the Indian Super League—the country's premier league that was touted as a game-changer just a decade ago—is staring at a bleak future. After two attempts in less than a month, the All India Football Federation, the sport's custodian, has not received a single bid for the tournament's sponsorship. As the deadline expired on November 7, so did the target of hosting the competition in December.

If the ISL is not held in time, the league may not finish by May, tripping the clubs' hopes of representation in Asian club championships. According to the last contract, which ends in December, the Football Sports Development Limited, AIFF's commercial partner in charge of ISL, was paying ₹50 crore a year for 15 years to the federation. The FSDL did not want to continue after the AIFF showed reluctance with some of their demands, which included 'No relegation'. In this request for proposal, the annual payment was reduced to ₹37.5 crore or 5 percent of gross revenue, whichever was higher; yet there were no takers.

This shows ISL's decline in terms of revenue generation and viewership. There is also a belief that the ISL has not contributed much in lifting the football standards in the country. The way things are, the AIFF is treading a precarious precipice because they cannot go back to FSDL without agreeing to some of their demands including no relegation, which could attract a penalty from the sport's global governing bodies.

One must also consider that the bidding process is being carried out under the Supreme Court's supervision, with the bid evaluation committee led by former SC judge L Nageswara Rao. The RFP—framed as per the AIFF constitution and in consultation with 11 ISL clubs—was drafted with help from a top business advisory body and monitored by the evaluation committee. None of them could avoid the impasse. Now, all stakeholders must find a swift solution, as this will affect other leagues for men and women, too. Two ISL clubs have already stopped operations for now. Without leagues, ultimately, players will be the ones most affected.

QUICK TAKE

#RIPPREMATUREOBITS

WHAT'S it about human nature that continues to give fresh life to Mark Twain's memorable repartee—"Reports of my death are greatly exaggerated"? Dharmendra is the latest to suffer because itchy fingers were ready to prematurely pronounce a celebrity's passing. At a time they are attending to the ailing actor, his family has to deflect an outpouring of untimely grief. Oddly enough, premature obituaries are not as rare as they should be. From Jimmy Carter, Rowan Atkinson, and Noam Chomsky abroad to Son-nath Chatterjee, Lata Mangeshkar, and Manna Dey at home—many have been declared deceased publicly before their time. Today, such mispronouncements can multiply voluminously before the blink of a cursor. Wait for confirmed news from credible sources and make #RIPPrematureObits trend.

UNITED States President Donald Trump is taking aim at the United Nations. Reshaping it is his next big foreign policy project.

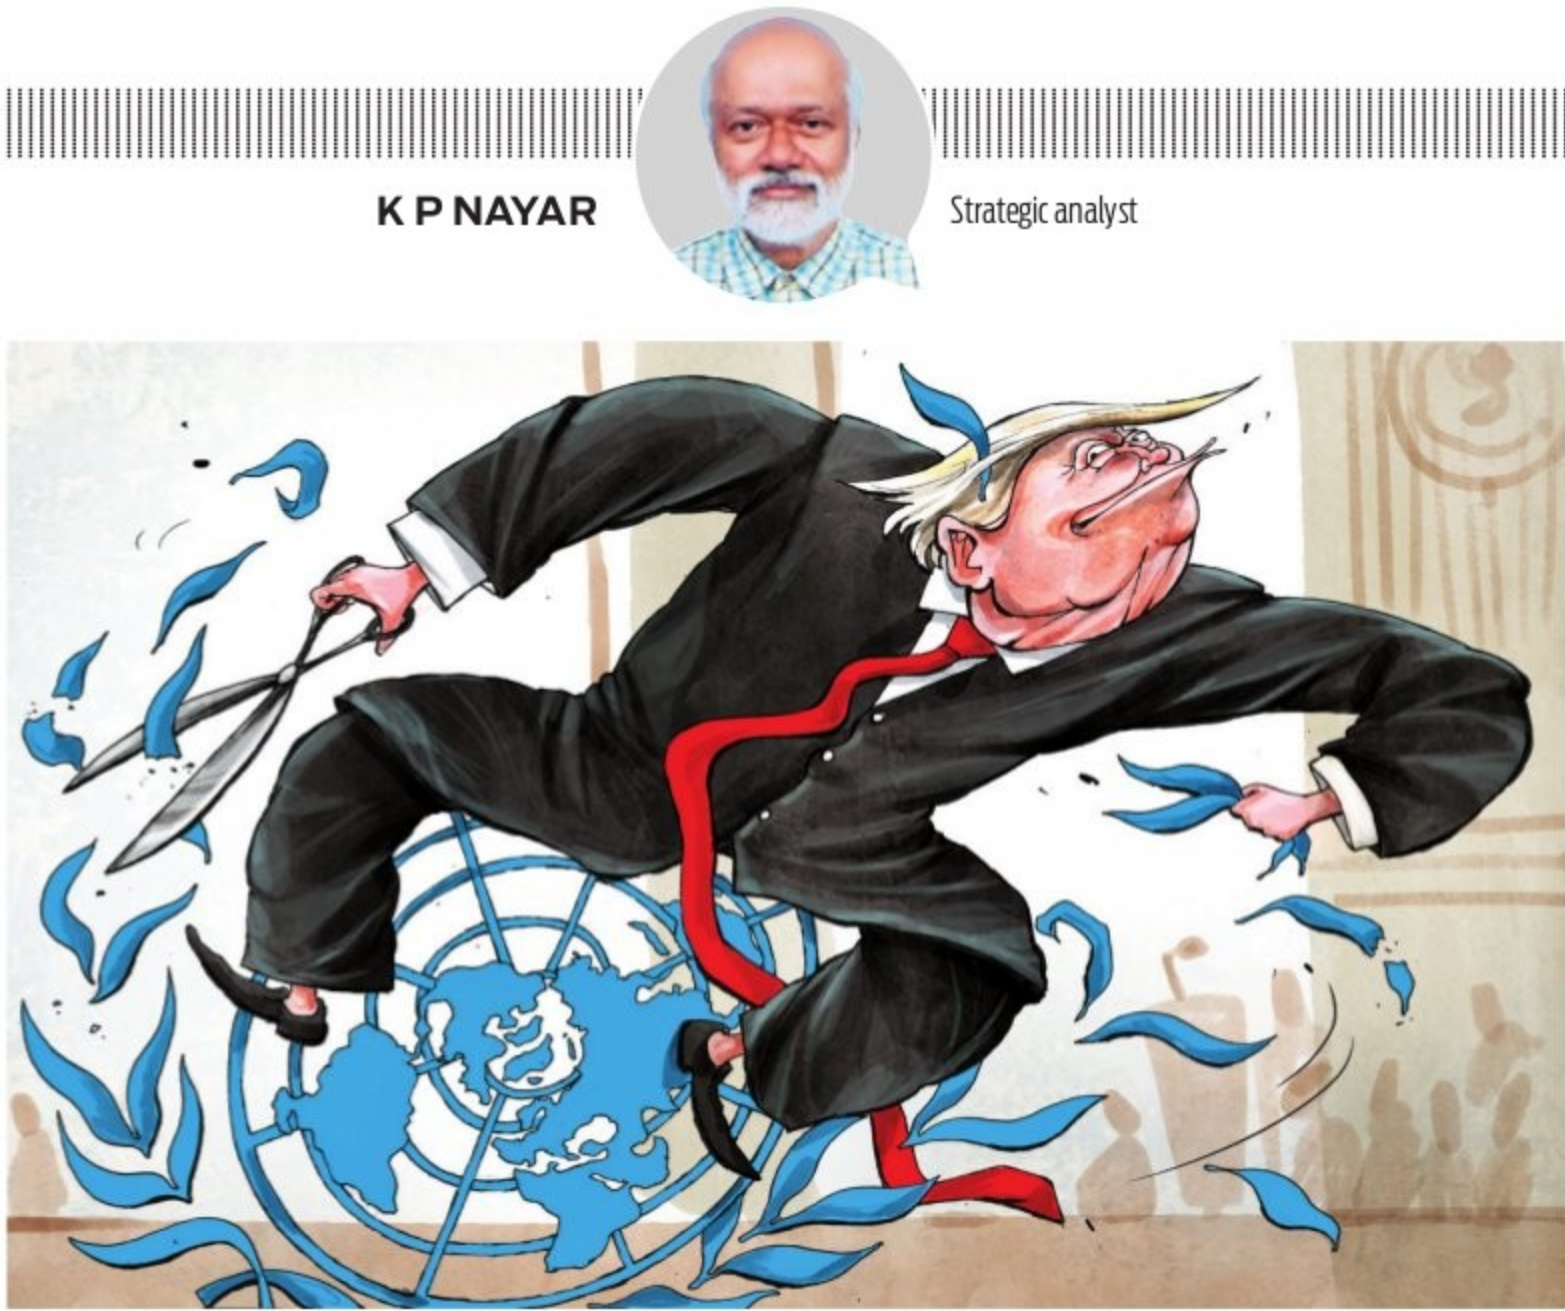

Trump aims first to try to bend the UN to his will, capture it, and remake the world body in his image. If he fails, he will try to discredit the UN and destroy it. But destroying the UN will be easier said than done. Notwithstanding its institutional rough edges—like the veto power for a few in the 15-nation UN Security Council (UNSC)—the world body in its present form is the most democratic global institution that humankind has known. The one-country-one-vote functional foundation of the UN General Assembly (UNGA), "the main policy-making organ" of the UN, means 2.02-sq-km Monaco has the same rights and privileges in the UNGA as the US, the sole superpower. India is credited with having contributed to the inscription of the one-member-one-vote principle as Article 18 of the UN Charter during negotiations in 1945 in San Francisco for its adoption.

How does the 47th US president plan to go about his designs for transforming the UN? His first shot in this plan is likely to be fired at the end of this year, soon after the General Assembly president and the UNSC send a joint letter to all UN members inviting nominations for the post of the next UN secretary-general. It is one of toughest diplomatic jobs in the world. By convention, incumbent secretary-general António Guterres's successor should be from Latin America and the Caribbean. Trump would like the post to go to a US national, someone with a mind like his. But any such attempt would be vetoed by Russia and China, probably by France as well. Then, Trump's next step would be to induct a non-American who is sympathetic to his worldview.

Tracking Trump's words and actions on the global stage so far in his second presidential term, it is increasingly clear that he views the UN favourably now. That is the inverse of his attitude towards the UN when he was president from 2017 to 2021. With-in days of moving into the White House this year, Trump turned his back on the UN's Human Rights Council, its Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization, and its Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East. Then he showed up at the UNGA on the opening day of its annual General Debate on September 23. He arrived at the UN headquarters with a scowl: seven years ago, when Trump addressed the General Debate, the delegates laughed at him. He was ridiculed for his fantasies, his fictitious statements that did not bear fact-checking. Trump did not know what to expect during his latest address.

To the US president's great surprise, there were no sniggers, no derision. The entire UNGA listened to him silently, in attention. Trump was given 15 minutes, but he spoke for about an hour. Nobody stopped him. The General Assembly president, who did not hide her true feelings for Trump in her previous job as Germany's foreign minister, did not use her gavel to cut short the US president.

For Trump, this was more comforting than having to address the US Congress, where the chamber is almost equally divided between his Republican supporters and hostile Democrats who don't listen in silence to the president's State of the Union address. Trump clearly liked being at the UNGA this year. By all accounts, the contrast between how his speech was received at the UN two months ago and his humiliation at the same venue in 2018 was a turning point. Make America Great Again (MAGA) sources say its fallout on how Trump now sees the UN will unfold in the coming months.

On the 80th anniversary of the UN Charter last month, Dorothy Shea, US deputy permanent representative to the UN, dropped a bombshell that in all probability dashed Latin America and the Caribbean's hopes of electing

FOR DUE DILIGENCE ON PF DUES

THIS October, the finance minister launched the nationwide campaign 'Your money, your right'. The objective is to make people aware of unclaimed funds and assets of up to ₹1.84 lakh crore lying with various authorities. Coming after the GST and income tax incentives, unleashing such idle funds could further help private consumption and economic growth.

The expression 'your money' has three distinct dimensions. The first concerns 'unclaimed' assets—belonging to rightful owners who are unaware of their holdings. The solution lies in facilitating the 'claiming of the unclaimed' through greater awareness, accessibility, and procedural simplification.

The second dimension concerns 'withheld' assets, where the owners are aware of their assets but have been unable to claim them, often despite repeated efforts. While the awareness campaign is expected to increase the number of claims, its real success will depend on the response of the custodians of such claims. It calls for an institutional commitment to 'release the withheld' promptly and efficiently.

The third dimension concerns the flow of such assets, 'serve the claimed'. Custodians must proactively identify, trace, and return assets to their owners before they become unclaimed. This forward-looking approach will give full effect to the campaign's principle.

The Reserve Bank seems to have become active on all three dimensions since launching the unified database for unclaimed deposits or UDGM portal in August 2023. Further, this September 26, it issued directions simplifying procedures for settling accounts of deceased depositors to nominees or to legal heirs. Shortly thereafter, it introduced an innovative, incentive-based scheme to reduce the stock of unclaimed deposits in the Depositor Education and Awareness Fund.

The Insurance Regulatory and Development Authority has made tangible progress since 2022 in strengthening its Bima Bharosa portal, an integrated grievance redress system to facilitate claim settlements. The Securities and Exchange Board has operationalised the Mutual Funds Investment Tracing and Retrieval Assistant or MITRA, while the Pension Fund Regulatory and Development Authority has introduced a facility enabling subscribers to claim refunds.

A key to address all three dimensions lies in honouring the claims in time rather than rejecting them on technical or procedural grounds. Consider the case of the Investor Education and Protection Fund, which reportedly holds unclaimed assets about ₹1.1 lakh crore, comprising roughly ₹9,000 crore in unpaid dividends and about ₹150-crore unclaimed securities. These assets accumulated because companies and their registrars and transfer agents failed to disburse them to the rightful owners for several years.

rungs of the working class, who require special support on their savings-to-pension journey. As both an empowered regulator and service provider, it should have been a model of efficiency.

However, the reality is different. The claim that there's only ₹8,500 crore in unclaimed funds, even if correct, masks the deeper problems. EPFO's annual report for 2023-24 shows that overall, 25.5 percent of claims were rejected. Delays compound the problem, with 40 percent percent of claims taking more than 10 days to settle.

On paper, the reasons for rejection appear reasonable. However, anecdotal experiences tell a different story. Of rejection on account of 'inadequate balance' at the age of 65, 'multiple unique account numbers', 'need to recheck of retirement rules of the organisation', Issues with the digital interface turns out to be an obstacle race with multiple checkpoints and desk of officials, each one dismissing casually. There is also a deep disconnect between the system genie and humans, leaving even a few well-intentioned officials helpless, making citizens trapped in endless loops.

Our experience made us recall the horror story of a subscriber in Kochi who committed suicide after nine years of pursuing his PF claims. Not surprisingly, this has spanned a parallel ecosystem of brokers who charge up to 20 percent to help people access their funds, since it takes '25 steps to withdraw your own money'. Hope, EPFO 3.0 will reduce the disconnects between humans and machines, and the incentive problems.

Semi-functional processes and apps without application of mind are a disservice to our people. Systems must enable subscribers/rightful owners to realise their assets, like digital bank account transactions. While all systems must be efficient and customer-friendly, compulsory systems must be perfect. Only perfect systems can make your money your right. If that cannot be guaranteed by their custodians, such schemes should shift to a voluntary mode so that their users need not crush their heads in single-window routes to prolonged traps.

(Views are personal)

When honouring claims is inefficient and rejection rates high, getting your rightful dues can be a nightmare. In the spirit of the govt campaign 'Your money, your right', particular attention should be paid to EPFO, most of whose subscribers need help with the claims process

An authority was established in 2016 to facilitate the refund of unclaimed assets. However, its track record of re-funds is yet to be inspiring. During 2023-24, while about 17,000 applications were approved, nearly 34,000 were rejected.

Most of the unclaimed or withheld money represents amounts individuals voluntarily deposited or invested. However, the situation is perhaps worse where they are mandatory, like subscriptions to pension or provident funds. The Employees Provident Fund Organisation (EPFO) is a glaring example of the challenges in ensuring 'Your Money. Your Right'.

A statutory body with 73 years of experience, it manages over ₹28 lakh crore in funds for some 8 crore active members. The EPFO primarily serves the lowest one of their own as the next secretary-general. "We believe the process for selection of such an important position should be purely merit-based with as wide a pool of candidates as possible... With this in mind, the US invites candidates from all regional groupings," Shea said.

It is plausible that Trump discussed the selection of a new secretary-general during his many conversations with Russian President Vladimir Putin. That may account for Russian permanent representative Vassily Nebenzia's statement the same day: "Latin Americans have all the moral reason to claim this term, but it does not prevent candidates from other regions to step in if they want to. My criterion is merit." A Russia-US tango on Guterres's successor will be a formidable combination in the UNSC, which has enormous power to decide the succession. It is unlikely that America's second-most important diplomat at its UN mission would have made a policy statement of this kind without explicit approval from the White House.

In a situation where Trump cannot get his candidate chosen as the next secretary-general—whose term will begin January 1, 2027—he has already discussed with his aides a Plan B, according to MAGA sources. This will be to get an American of Trumpist persuasion as the General Assembly president before he leaves the White House. In the last 80 years, no American has been elected to preside over the General Assembly for a whole one-year term. Big countries like Brazil, Canada, Australia, and India's Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit have all had their turns at this job which comes with immense authority. Expansion of the UNSC, for instance, has inched forward to its present crossroads mainly because of General Assembly presidents sympathetic to reform.

If the Trump administration hoped to leverage its financial contributions to bend the UN to its will, China has put paid to such plans. UN's Deputy Spokesperson Farhan Haq revealed last month that China has paid its UN budget dues in full. Beijing is now the second-biggest financial contributor to the world body. The US is the biggest defaulter and owes the UN $1.5 billion out of the $1.87 billion that is owed by the entire world. Many battles will be fought in the remainder of Trump's term in office for control of this community of 193 nations.

JAYANTH JACOB @NewDelhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday condemned the deadly blast near Delhi's historic Red Fort that claimed 12 lives so far and vowed that the conspirators would be brought to justice.

Speaking from Thimphu, Bhutan, where he is on a two-day state visit, the Prime Minister said the government would leave no stone unturned in tracking down those behind the explosion. "Today, I come here with a very heavy heart," Modi said. "The horrific incident that took place in Delhi yesterday evening has deeply saddened everyone. I understand the grief of the affected families. The entire nation stands with them today."

The Prime Minister said that he had been in constant touch with investigating agencies since the explosion. "I was in touch with all the agencies investigating this incident throughout last night. Our agencies will get to the bottom of this conspiracy," he asserted. "The conspirators behind this will not be spared. All those responsible will be brought to justice."

The powerful blast, which occurred on Monday evening near the Red Fort parking area, shook the national capital, leaving at least 12 people dead and several others injured. The explosion also triggered panic in nearby markets and led to alerts in many parts of the country.

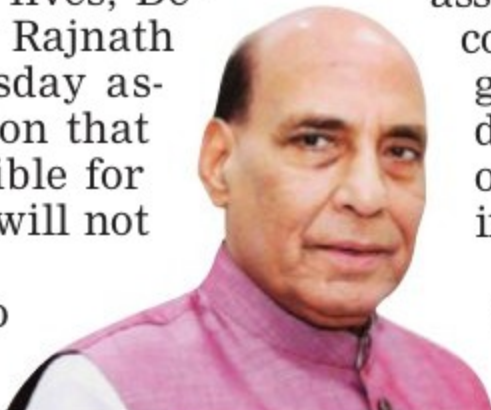

Delhi Police have registered a First Information Report (FIR) under the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act (UAPA) and the Explosives Act in connection with the blast. Senior officials confirmed that multiple investigation teams, including the National Investigation Agency (NIA) and forensic experts, are working to trace the source of the explosives.

Rajnath assures quick action, justice for families of victims

MAYANK SINGH @NewDelhi

A day after a high-intensity explosion ripped through a car claiming nine lives, Defence Minister Rajnath Singh on Tuesday assured the nation that those responsible for the blast here will not be spared.

"I want to firmly assure the nation that those responsible for the tragedy will be brought to justice and not spared under any circumstances," the minister asserted. He added that the country's leading investigating agencies are conducting a swift and thorough inquiry into the incident.

Singh was addressing the Delhi Defence Dialogue, a flagship event of the Manohar Par-rikar Institute for Defence Studies and Analyses, a Delhi based think tank.

His statement holds significance in light of India's Operation Sindoor still continuing. The Operation was launched in response to the April 22 Pahalgam terrorist attacks which killed 26 civilians.

Under the operation, the Indian Armed forces had carried out attacks on terrorist infrastructures within Pakistan and the Pakistan-occupied-Jammu. It had led to a volley of drone and missile attacks.

Post Operation Sindoor, the Centre had brought out that PM Modi's decision to suspend the Indus Waters Treaty was a historic move, not only harming Pakistan's interests but also benefiting India.

"He established a new national security doctrine: any future terror attack will be treated as an act of war. This eliminated the false distinction between terrorists and their state sponsors," the government stated.

Also, later in October, as reported by this newspaper, Army Chief General Upendra Dwivedi asserted that the ongoing military action, dubbed Operation Sindoor 1.0, had not ceased, and that although the firing has paused, the operation will continue until its objectives are achieved.

'Good day to send a message': SC denies bail to ISIS terror accused

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY
@NewDelhi

THE Supreme Court on Tuesday, without mentioning the Delhi blast, denied bail to a man allegedly associated with the proscribed Islamic State of Iraq and Syria (ISIS) outfit, noting that he has been accused of trying to create a "ring of terror" in the country.

The apex court's two-judge bench comprising of Justices Vikram Nath and Sandeep Mehta, refused to grant bail to the accused, Syed Mamoor Ali, and said, "it was the best morning to send a message," in the case.

The top court's observation came a day after an explosion near Delhi's Red Fort area killed at least 12 people and injured 20 others. The remarks were in response to the petitioner's counsel, Siddharth Dave, saying that it may not be the best morning to argue the case, especially after Monday's events.

The bench declined to grant Ali bail after hearing a Special Leave petition (SLP) challenging a January order of the Madhya Pradesh High Court which denied him bail in the case.

However, the bench directed the trial court to conclude the trial in the case within two years. "In case the trial is not concluded within the aforesaid period for no fault attributable to the petitioner, it would be open for the petitioner to revive his prayer for bail," the bench said.

During the hearing, the bench asked the petitioner's counsel about the recoveries made in the case, to which the counsel replied that there were no recoveries other than Islamic literature. Responding to the counsel, Justice Mehta remarked, "You are accused of creating a ring of terror in the country." The bench pointed out that preparation is an offence under Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act (UAPA).

Despite the argument that no RDX or explosive had been recovered, and that the petitioner is 70% disabled, the Court refused relief and denied bail.

The case was lodged against Ali for alleged offences under various sections of the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act (UAPA) and the Indian Penal Code (IPC).

Day after 3K kg explosives found, 800 cops troop down to Dhauj in Faridabad

HARPREET BAJWA @Chandigarh

THE Haryana Police have deployed around 800 personnel for combing and search operations in and around Dhauj village in Faridabad on Tuesday following the recovery of 2,910 kg explosives and inflammable substances from two rooms rented by 35-year-old Kashmiri doctor Muzammil Ganaie.

Police personnel have been deployed near Al Falah University and at Fatehpur Taga where some arms and bomb-making equipment were allegedly recovered during searches across fields and houses in Dahar Colony.

A police officer said Jammu and Kashmir and Faridabad police jointly questioned question staff and doctors at the university, where the Kashmiri doctor lived for three-and-a-half years. A maulana of a mosque adjoining the university is also being questioned by the J&K police, he said.

JEM 'DOCs' BEHIND BLAST NEAR RED FORT

SUMIT KUMAR SINGH @NewDelhi

THE powerful explosion near Delhi's Red Fort, which killed at least 12 people and injured several others, was allegedly orchestrated by Jaish-e-Mohammad (JeM) under the directions of its UN-designated chief, Maulana Masood Azhar, according to a senior Intelligence Bureau officer.

Investigators said the Pakistan-based group had cultivated a network of radicalised doctors to plan Pulwama-style, vehicle-borne suicide attacks in the national capital.

Officials said the Delhi blast bore similarities to the 2006 Mumbai train bombings, where locally radicalised individuals were used to execute coordina-ed strikes that led to the death of 209 people. The explosion was triggered by an IED planted in a white Hyundai i20, intended for a larger attack. The driver, suspected to be Dr. Umar Mohammad Nabi, was part of a "white-collar" terror module comprising doctors allegedly linked to JeM operatives in Kashmir.

The network was uncovered during an investigation into JeM posters that appeared on the outskirts of Srinagar. Through technical surveillance, police teams from Jammu and Kashmir, Uttar Pradesh, and Haryana, aided by central agencies, conducted multi-state raids.

A breakthrough came with the arrest of Dr. Muzammil Ahmad Ganaie (35) from Faridabad. A native of Pulwama and employee of Al Falah Hospital, Ganaie allegedly possessed 2,900 kg of explosives, suspected to be ammonium nitrate, along with arms and ammunition seized from two rented houses. His interrogation led to the arrests of Dr. Adeel Majeed Rather, from Kulgam, and Dr. Shaheen Sayeed, a Lucknow-based medical professional associated with Al Falah University.

Investigators claimed Sayeed was helping set up Jamaat-ul-Mominat, a women's recruitment wing of JeM aimed at inducting educated professionals. An assault rifle was recovered from her vehicle before she was flown to Srinagar for interrogation. Police suspect Dr. Umar Mohammad, also from Pulwama and affiliated with Al Falah University's medical faculty, was behind the wheel of the IED-laden car. DNA tests are underway to confirm his identity. The National Investigation Agency (NIA) has now taken over the probe. Delhi Police's Special Cell and central agencies have traced the vehicle's 11-hour route from Faridabad to Red Fort, where it was parked for nearly three hours before the 6:52 p.m. explosion.

Officials said the intended target could have been anywhere in central Delhi, indicating a larger strike was being planned.

Heightened security in J&K and UP after explosion

FAYAZ WANI & NAMITA BAJPAI @Srinagar/Lucknow

SECURITY has been tightened across Jammu and Kashmir and Uttar Pradesh on Tuesday after Delhi explosion killed 10 people. Forces intensified checking of vehicles, especially on Srinagar-Jammu NH, and conducted surprise cordon and search operations while Lieutenant Governor Manoj Sinha reviewed operational preparedness. UP Anti-Terrorism Squad (ATS) conducted raids in Saharanpur, Lucknow, and Muzaffarnagar.

"We launched a special vehicle-checking drive not only on highways but also across more than 75 locations in Kulgam's interiors," Kulgam SSP Anayat Ali Choudhary said. The checking of vehicles and commuters was done in Anantnag, Awantipora, Pulwama, Srinagar and Ganderbal.

In UP's Saharanpur, ATS sleuths raided the homes of three people reportedly close to Dr. Adeel Ahmed, who was one of the two Kashmiri doctors arrested by J&K police leading to the recovery of explosives in Faridabad. In Lucknow, ATS cops, along with J&K police, raided the house of Dr. Parvez Ansari in Madiyaon. Documents, digital devices, a car, and a bike were recovered. In Muzaffarnagar's Budhana, ATS raided Dawood Arabia Darul Uloom madrasa.

MUKESH RANJAN @NewDelhi

A day after the Red Fort car blast which claimed nearly a dozen lives and left several injured, the government swung into action and directed security agencies to unravel and eliminate the active sleeper cells of various terror modules of Jaish-e-Mohammad, Al-Qaeda in the Indian Subcontinent (AQIS), Islamic State Khorasan Province (ISKP) and Ansar Ghazwat-ul-Hind.

Union home Minister Amit Shah held back-to-back security review meetings with top brass of investigative and intelligence agencies to take stock of the progress made in investigation and multi-state searches being conducted by respective police forces. He reiterated Prime Minister Narendra Modi's resolve to bring the culprits to justice at the earliest.

After the deliberations, the Home Minister in a statement said, "Chaired review meetings on the Delhi car blast with senior officials and instructed them to hunt down each and every culprit behind this incident. Everyone involved in this act will face the full wrath of our agencies."

Shah held the meeting at his residence here, which was attended by Union Home Secretary Govind Mohan, Intelligence Bureau Director Tapan Kumar Deka, Delhi Police Commissioner Satish Golcha and National Investigation Agency (NIA) Director General (DG)

Sadanand Vasant Date, as Jammu and Kashmir Director General of Police (DGP) Nalin Prabhakar joined virtually.

Sources in the know of the development said, a team of more than 500 police and intelligence personnel has been formed to investigate the blast, while security has been beefed-up across Delhi-NCR, with NSG commandos deployed at key installations.

Even as the probe in the case has been handed over to the NIA, the Home Minister directed the DG of the anti-terror probe agency to proceed further in tandem with the IB and the Delhi Police Special Cell and leave no stone unturned in getting to the bottom of the conspiracy and bring the culprit to justice.

High alerts have already been issued in Delhi, Uttar Pradesh, Bihar, where polling for the assembly elections ended today and in Mumbai, with security around crowded places and religious sites has been enhanced, the sources said.

According to the sources, the officials briefed the Home Minister and apprised him that more than 1,000 CCTV footage clips are being scanned by investigative agencies, which suspect that the car explosion could have been a suicide attack aimed at causing maximum damage. Investigative agencies are also monitoring social media activity and collecting mobile phone dump data from several locations across Delhi, they added.

Voter participation hits 2-decade high

NO. OF WOMEN VOTERS IS MORE THAN MEN IN BOTH PHASES OF ELECTIONS

HEAVY POLLING IN MUSLIM-DOMINATED SEEMANCHAL & MAOIST-HIT AREAS

CONTEST IS MAINLY BETWEEN RULING NDA AND OPPN INDIA BLOC; OVER TO D-DAY

VISMAY BASU @ New Delhi

THE 2025 Bihar Assembly election has seen one of the highest voter turnouts in the state's history. This signals a major resurgence of democratic participation. According to the Election Commission of India, Phase 1 recorded a turnout of 64.66%. Phase 2 rose even higher, reaching 67.14% by 5 pm on Tuesday, November 11, and setting a new two-decade benchmark. The ECI has yet to publish the exact gender breakdown. Compared with the 56.66% turnout in 2020, the surge is striking. This marks an 11-point jump in just one election cycle.

The long-term trend shows an impressive climb in voter participation. In 2020, the overall turnout was 56.66%, with women (59.69%) voting in greater numbers than men (54.68%). This gender pattern mirrors 2015, when women again led by a wide margin (60.48% vs. 53.32% for men). Going back further, the 2010 election recorded a 52.67% turnout (men: 51%; women: 54%).

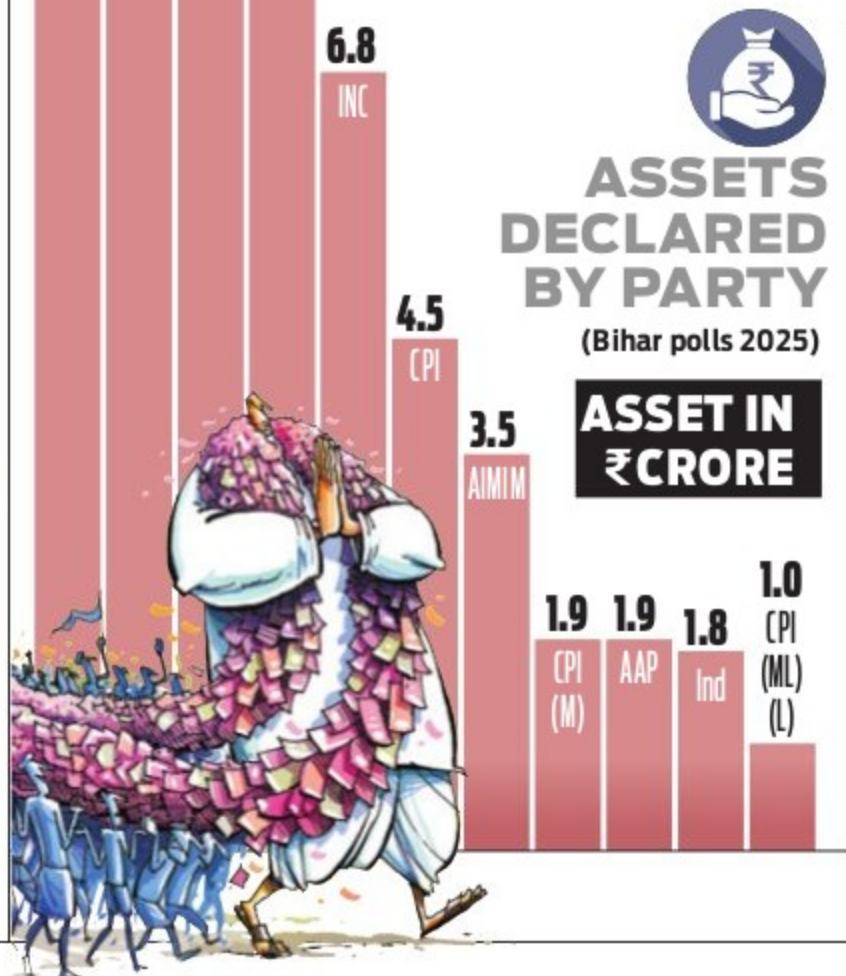

Yet, despite this heightened participation, cleaner politics remain elusive. Despite widespread calls for reform, the shadow of criminalisation still looms large over Bihar's electoral landscape. According to affidavits filed with the Election Commission, independent candidates account for the highest number of those with declared criminal cases — 660 in total.

Among recognised parties, the BJP leads with 163 candidates facing charges, followed by the INC (125), JD(U) (106), AIMIM (99), and CPI(ML)(L) (89). Even smaller parties show concerning figures — the Lok Janshakti Party (Ram Vilas) has 48, AAP 37, CPI(M) 30, and CPI 21, while the Vikassheel Insaan Party (VIP) has the fewest with 11.

This persistent presence of candidates with criminal backgrounds, cutting across party lines, underscores the entrenched nexus between politics, money, and muscle in the state. Despite rising awareness and a more engaged electorate, the challenge of fielding clean candidates continues to test Bihar's democratic maturity.

The other defining feature of Bihar's elections remains the concentration of wealth among candidates. The 2025 declarations reveal a stark economic divide across political parties. The Vikassheel Insaan Party (VIP) tops the list with an average declared asset value of ₹36.96 crore per candidate — nearly three times higher than any other major party. Next is the Lok Janshakti Party (Ram Vilas) with ₹13.08 crore, followed by JD(U) (₹8.81 crore), BJP (₹8.73 crore), and INC (₹6.81 crore). In contrast, the CPI averages ₹4.47 crore, the AIMIM 3.46 crore, while CPI(M) and AAP hover around ₹1.85 crore each. Independents declare an average of ₹1.75 crore, and the CPI(ML)(L) reports the lowest at ₹95.96 lakh.

These figures point to a wealth gap between smaller ideological parties and the big-ticket contenders, suggesting that while political competition in Bihar is expanding, financial inequality among candidates continues to shape who gets to run—and win.

68.79% TURNOUT MARKS FINAL PHASE OF POLLS

RAMASHANKAR @Patna

THE enthusiasm of Bihar's voters touched a new high on Tuesday as the state recorded its highest-ever voter turnout of 68.79% in the second and final phase of the Assembly elections. Voting took place for 122 constituencies across 20 districts, completing polling for all 243 seats.

In the first phase, Bihar registered a turnout of 65.08%. The second phase, however, saw even greater participation, pushing the overall turnout across both phases to 66.9%—nearly 10% higher than in the last Assembly polls.

Chief Electoral Officer Vinod Singh Gunjyal said that figures from about 2,000 polling booths were still awaited, and the final percentage could rise further. Nearly 3.74 crore voters, including 1.95 crore men and 1.74 crore women, were eligible to vote at 45,399 polling stations, most of them in rural areas. More than half of the electorate (2.28 crore) was aged 30-60. Only 7.69 lakh were in the 18-19 age group.

Women turned out in large numbers once again. Voters in the Muslim-dominated Seemanchal region also participated actively, while Maoist-affected areas in Rohtas, Gaya, and Jamui reported heavy turnout without incident. Significantly, no polling station was relocated in any of the Naxal-hit districts. The high-stakes contest is mainly between the ruling BJP-JD(U)-led NDA and the RJD-Congress Mahagathabandhan, with Prashant Kishor's Jan Suraj Party seen as a potential spoiler. The AIMIM of Asaduddin Owaisi is also contesting several seats in Seemanchal.

Prominent candidates in the fray include JD(U) veteran Bijendra Prasad Yadav, who is seeking an eighth consecutive win from Supaul, BJP leader Prem Kumar, who has held the Gaya Town seat since 1990. Others are Renu Devi of BJP (Bettiah), and JD(U)'s Leshi Singh (Dhamdaha).

Minor clashes were reported in Nawada and Araria districts, but police quickly brought the situations under control. Over 1,600 companies of central and state armed police were deployed to ensure peaceful polling. Authorities said 590 people were arrested for disrupting the process, while 844 illegal weapons were seized.

The counting of votes will take place on November 14.

2 Maoist-hit villages vote for first time since '47

RAMASHANKAR @Sasaram

WHAT is common to Rehal village in Rohtas district and Pichhulia village in neighbouring Gaya? Voters of the two Maoist-affected villages exercised their franchise for the first time after Independence.

Polling stations were set up at Rehal, situated on the Kaimur Plateau, for the first time. "It was like a dream come true for me when I cast my vote at a polling booth located at Rehal government primary school," said Pramod Oraon, a local resident. Oraon in his early 50s is all praise for the Election Commission (EC) for setting up the booth for the second phase of the assembly elections.

Polling and security personnel earlier refused to visit the village for security reasons. On February 15, 2002, a young DFO, Sanjay Singh, was killed by Maoists at Rehal for his tough action against mining mafia. Since then, security personnel stopped visiting the village. "Earlier people had to go down to the plains to vote. For the first time polling booths have been up at the village," Oraon he told this reporter.

Shyam Narain, 60, a former Pipardiha panchayat head, said, "People of Rehal participated in the democratic process this time without fear. Security arrangements have been made by the EC and district administration for peaceful polling."

Rehal is part of Chenari constituency. People mostly from Yadav, Oraon, Ravidas and Kharbar communities reside at the village, which till recently lacked basic amenities like electricity and drinking water. Panchayat head Yogendra Oraon said that so far, no party has given ticket to tribal candidates despite Chenari being a reserved seat.

ADG (HQ) Kundan Krishnan said, "In Gaya, voters of Maoist-hit Pichhulia village in Chakrabandha area participated in the democratic process for the first time after Independence."

Bilimora tense as interstate arms racket busted, 5 nabbed after Gujarat gunfight

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @Ahmedabad

A dramatic gunfight erupted in the Bilimora city of Gujarat's Navsari district on Tuesday as the Gujarat Police's state monitoring cell (SMC) swooped in on a gang allegedly gathered at a hotel to exchange weapons.

Five gangsters were arrested after the fierce encounter in which one of them was shot in the leg. The police seized three country-made pistols and 27 live cartridges from the spot. A probe is on to ascertain the interstate links of the gang.

Acting on a specific intelligence tip, the SMC team raided the premises. As officers surrounded the suspects, the gang opened fire in panic, attempting to flee. Two rounds were exchanged one fired by the gang, and another by the police in swift retaliation. The accused who sustained a bullet injury has been identified as Yashsingh Sundarsingh from Haryana. He was rushed to a hospital for treatment. Among others arrested were Rishabh Ashok Sharma of Madhya Pradesh and Manish Kaluram Kumawat & Madan Gopiram Kumawat of Rajasthan.

The situation on the ground is currently under control, and further details will follow after the registration of an FIR, a senior police officer privy to the details revealed. Preliminary investigations reveal the arrested men are linked to a notorious interstate criminal network, possibly involved in illegal arms trafficking.

Tata Trusts: Srinivasan's tenure cut from life to 3 yrs

Neville Tata, Bhaskar Bhat inducted to Board of Sir Dorabji Tata Trust

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

AFTER clawing back his control on the key dozen odd Tata Trusts with the unprecedented ouster of the rebellious trustee Mehli Mistry last month, the Board of the trusts led by chairman Noel Tata has inducted his son Neville Tata, and Tata group veteran Bhaskar Bhat on to the board of the Sir Dorabji Tata Trust (SDTT), which is one of the two key trusts that own 52% of the 66.6% stake in Tata Sons.

At a board meeting held on Tuesday, the trustees revised vice-chairman Venu Srinivasan's tenure from a life-term to three years, following a Maharashtra government rule. Srinivasan is one of the two trusts' nominees on the board of Tata Sons.

Both the appointments are for three years, effective Wednesday, November 12. The 32-year-old Neville, the youngest of the three children of Noel and Aloo (sister of the late Cyrus Mistry) Tata, is a Bayes Business School graduate, had joined Trent, which is chaired by his father, in 2016.

Noel's two daughters Leah (39) and Maya (36) Tata also are present on the boards of all the smaller Tata Trusts,

NEW APPOINTEES ON THE BOARD

THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE SIR DORABJI TATA TRUST (SDTT) HOLDS A MEETING ON NOV 11, 2025

Approves induction of Bhaskar Bhat and Neville Tata as Trustees with effect from Nov 12, 2025 for a period of 3 years and Neville is the first to be inducted onto the key trust.

THE BOARD ALSO APPOINTS venu SRINIVASAN AS TRUSTEE FOR A PERIOD OF 3 YEARS

In a rare public statement issued on Tuesday, the trusts said the board of the Sir Dorabji Tata Trust has unanimously appointed Neville and Bhat as its trustees for three years and reduced Srinivasan's tenure from a life term to three years, in accordance with the extant Maharashtra government rules limiting the number of lifetime trustees.

The move strengthens Neville's position within the Tata ecosystem. After joining Trent, Neville was initially managing the packaged foods and beverages vertical, and later led Zudio, the value fashion brand that has emerged as one of the fastest-growing apparel formats in the country.

Currently, he serves on the boards of the JRD Tata Trust, Tata Social Welfare Trust, and the RD Tata Trust, and could also be inducted into the Sir Ratan Tata Trust (SRTT) later. The 71-year-old Bhaskar Bhat is an IIT Madras and IIM Ahmedabad alumnus, and began his career at Godrej & Boyce in 1978 before joining the Tata Watch Project, which later became Titan. As its MD from 2002 to 2019, he expanded Titan's portfolio beyond watches into eyewear, jewellery, fragrances, accessories, and sarees, and made it the group's second-largest listed firm at that time in terms of market value.

SOUTH KOREA

BOK BOARD MEMBERS CAUTIOUS ABOUT RATE CUTS

Most board members of South Korea's central bank expressed caution about further policy easing as they kept interest rates unchanged at their last meeting on October 23, minutes of the meeting showed on Tuesday. The Bank of Korea voted 6-1 to keep its benchmark interest rate unchanged at 2.50% last month amid worries about an overheated housing market and a weak won, though four members left the door open for a rate cut in the next three months. Most members agreed at the meeting the board should maintain an accommodative policy stance to support growth but risk factors needed to be assessed thoroughly and the pace adjusted flexibly. The economy grew in Q3 by the fastest pace in a year-and-a-half. The won has been weakening for a third straight month in November and hit on Tuesday its lowest level since early April amid concerns over a large investment package included in a trade deal with the US.

JAPAN

BOJ SEES NEAR-TERM RATE HIKE

Bank of Japan policymakers saw a growing case to raise interest rates in the near term, with some calling for the need to ensure companies' wage-hike momentum will be sustained, a summary of opinions at the October meeting showed on Monday. Of the 13 opinions on monetary policy from the nine-member board, eight called for the need to raise interest rates soon or laid out specific conditions to hike borrowing costs in the near-term horizon, the summary showed. The BOJ is likely to raise rates if there is "no negative news" regarding the global economy or markets, and if it can confirm that firms' active wage-setting behaviour will be maintained, another opinion showed. At the two-day meeting through October 30, the BOJ kept interest rates steady at 0.5%. Two board members dissented to the decision and instead proposed hiking rates to 0.75%.

MALAYSIA

2025 GDP GROWTH LIKELY TO EXCEED PROJECTIONS

Malaysia's gross domestic product (GDP) for 2025 could rise further, underpinned by robust economic performance, Prime Minister Datuk Seri Anwar Ibrahim said. He added that the country's economy remained strong and resilient, recording 4.4 per cent growth in the first half of 2025. Anwar was responding to a question from Aminolhuda Hassan (PH-Sri Gading) on the effectiveness of the Madani Economic Policy after 18 to 24 months and the ongoing and planned measures to ensure the policy achieves its objectives. Anwar, who also serves as Finance Minister, said trade trends remained positive, with total trade from January to September rising 4.4 per cent to around RM2.24 trillion. He added that Malaysia's competitiveness continued to improve, with the country climbing 11 places in the 2025 Global Competitiveness Index, marking its best performance since 2020.

Net direct tax collection up 7% during Apr-Nov

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

NET direct tax collection went up by 7% year-on-year between April 1 and November 10, 2025, touching ₹12.92 lakh crore, as per the latest data released by the Central Board of Direct Taxes (CBDT) on Tuesday. The refunds have gone down by more than 17% during this period as the total refund amount stood at ₹2.42 lakh crore.

The higher refunds and slower growth rate could be attributed to the income tax relief provided to individuals to boost consumption demand. Measures like raising exemption limit under new regime to ₹12 lakh from ₹7 lakh and reducing rates across slabs were estimated to put ₹1 lakh crore back into taxpayers' pockets to spur consumption and investment.

Out of the total direct tax collected, the net collection for the corporate tax stood at ₹5.37 lakh crore, 5.9% higher than ₹5.07 lakh crore in the corresponding period last year. Personal income tax revenue rose 8.7% to ₹7.19 lakh crore. Thus, non-corporate tax accounts for 55% of the net collection.

'India short of 2 mn skilled construction workers'

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Chennai

INDIA is short of two million skilled construction workers despite the sector being the second-largest employer in the country and expected to grow faster than any other industry, said Niranjan Hiranandani, founder and chairman of Hiranandani Communities on Tuesday.

"The country is short of two million skilled blue workers like plumbers, fitters, electricians, marble-layers, painters, etc. By 2030, the shortage is expected to go up to five million," he said while addressing media at the launch of premium senior living township - Elements - at Hiranandani Parks in Chen-nai's suburb Oragadam. The project is coming up with an investment of ₹300 crore and is expected to be completed in two-and-a-half years.

Hiranandani Parks, Oragadam, has an ambitious revenue target of ₹4,000 crore, developing nearly 100 acres of prime real estate. Elements at Hiranandani Parks project in Oragadam will be developed with Chennai-based luxury housing developer GTB Urban Developers. Speaking about the measures that need to be taken to fill the gap of skilled construction workers, Hiranandani said that there is a need to skill more workers in the proper way through AI, videos and training at construction sites.

VIL says banks assessing long-term funding after SC order on AGR dues

RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

TELECOM service provider Vodafone Idea Limited (Vi) on Tuesday said following the Supreme Court's recent order on the company's adjusted gross revenue (AGR) dues, banks are currently assessing the situation for providing long-term funding to the telecom operator.

Chief executive Abhijit Kishore, speaking during the company's second-quarter earnings call, said the apex court's order has brought greater clarity to the funding process. "With the recent development and the Supreme Court's order, things are quite clear now. Our sense is that, since the order has been issued only recently, there might still be some dependency on that, with banks now assessing the situation for long-term funding," said Kishore.

In a relief for the telecom operator, the Supreme Court on November 3, 2025 clarified that the government is free to consider relief on both additional and reassessed AGR dues. The earlier written order of the Court had indicated that Vodafone Idea had sought relief only

RBI allows loans against silver jewellery from April 1

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

AFTER liberalising the gold loan regulations recently, the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) has now allowed the public to borrow from pledging silver jewellery or coins from banks and non-banks. The new regulations will take effect from April 1, 2026.

A new set of guidelines outlining the procedures for taking silver as collateral for loans has been released by the central bank under the RBI (gold and silver loans) directions, 2025).

The new guidelines improve oversight, uniformity, and transparency in the precious metal loan market. The new norms allow all commercial banks (including small finance and regional rural banks), urban and rural cooperative banks, non-banking finance companies and housing finance companies.

The central bank has made it clear that loans can be given only on silver or gold kept in the form of jewellery or coins.

Loans will not be available against bullion — pure gold or silver ingots or their associated financial assets such as gold exchange-traded funds (ETFs) or mutual fund units. The central bank has also capped pledging of gold jewellery up to 1 kg and silver jewellery up to 10 kg; gold coins up to 50 grams and silver coins up to 500 grams.

The central bank has also fixed the maximum limit of loan-to-value (LTV) at up to 85% on loans up to ₹2.5 lakh, up to 80% on loans from ₹2.5 to ₹5 lakh and up to 75% on loans above ₹5 lakh. This means if you have silver worth ₹1 lakh, you can get a maximum loan of up to ₹85,000 on it. The lenders will arrive at the LTV or price of gold or silver, based on the average closing price of the past 30 days or the closing price of the previous day, whichever is lower. This price will be based on the issue rate of IBJA (India Bullion and Jewellers Association) or any recognised commodity exchange. The value of stones or other metals in jewellery will not be added.

The central bank has also said the pledged jewellery will be returned to the bank within seven working days after the loan is fully repaid or settled. If the delay is due to the fault of the bank, the customer will have to be compensated at the rate of ₹5,000 per day.

MF assets rise despite fall in equity fund inflows

BENN KOCHUVEEDAN @ Mumbai

DESPITE a steep 19% month-on-month fall in inflows into equity mutual funds to ₹24,690 crore in October, from ₹30,422 crore in September, the MF industry as a whole grew robustly with the assets under management (AUM) jumping by ₹4.26 lakh crore to ₹79.87 lakh crore in the reporting month, up from ₹75.61 lakh crore in the previous month.

Investors continued to pour money into equity MFs in October, with net equity inflows falling by 19% to ₹24,690 crore from ₹30,422 crore in September, yet the total equity AUM rose to ₹35.16 lakh crore from ₹33.71 lakh crore in the previous month, Amfi said on Tuesday.

Meanwhile, systematic investment plans (SIPs) continued to sizzle with inflows touching a new high of ₹29,529 crore in October, up marginally from ₹29,361 crore in the previous month, taking the SIP AUM at ₹16.25 lakh crore, about 20.3% of the overall MF industry AUM.

Another positive is that the stoppage ratio improved to 75, lower than 76.3 in September.

The stoppage ratio measures the percentage of investors pausing or stopping their systematic investment plan contributions or whose plan tenures have matured, has seen major fluctuations over the past two years. For much of 2024, the ratio stayed between 50 and 60, indicating moderate SIP cancellations. However, in early 2025, the ratio spiked sharply, reaching 109 in January and peaking at 296% in April. A ratio above 100% means more SIPs were stopped in that month than new SIPs started, signalling a period of high investor caution, possibly due to market volatility or personal liquidity needs. After April, the ratio has gradually normalised, stabilising around 56-76 from June to September 2025.

In terms of accounts, contributing SIPs rose to 9.45 crore, up from 9.25 crore in the prior month and the total number of SIP accounts rose to 9.88 crore from 9.73 crore.

India expands textile mkt outside US; exports to 111 countries see growth

DIPAK MONDAL @ New Delhi

THE diversification efforts by the government have helped mitigate the fall in textile exports due to US tariffs. Government sources have told TNIE textiles sector exports during April-September 2025 grew in 111 countries, offsetting losses in the US market.

These 111 countries contributed $8.5 billion during April-September 2025 as against $7.7 billion, a growth of 10% and $770.3 million in absolute growth, sources told TNIE. While total global textile exports rose 0.1%, textile exports to the US during the same period fell by 2.6% to $5.2 billion. The sector is the worst hit by the 50% US tariffs, which came into force on August 27, 2025. Apparel exports face a 63.9% duty in the US, India's largest textile exports market, accounting for $10.8 billion or 35% of shipments last year. However, the government identified 40 markets where textile exports could be pushed aggressively. These markets are spread across North America, Europe, Asia, Africa, Latin America, and Oceania. As per the sources, efforts have paid

The government designed dedicated outreach programmes to expand India's modest 5-6% market share in these economies, with emphasis on apparel, home textiles, technical textiles, and handicrafts. Special focus was placed on free trade agreement (FTA) partner nations, including the recently signed India-UK Comprehensive Economic and Trade Agreement (CETA). Export Promotion Councils, in coordination with Indian missions abroad, spearheaded promotion drives to position India as a reliable source of quality, sustainable, and innovative textiles while reducing overdependence on a handful of traditional markets.

Aishwary captures World C'ships silver

MP shooter garners an impressive 597 to equal qualification world record before finishing second in Cairo, Egypt

ANMOL GURUNG @ Chennai

INDIAN shooters have been raising the bar at the ongoing ISSF World Championship in Cairo, Egypt. Elavenil Valarivan, Anish Bhanwala, Samrat Rana and Varun Tomar took massive strides in their respective events to lift the country in the last few days.

Aishwary Pratap Singh Tomar, who competes in men's 50m rifle 3 positions, was the latest to join the bandwagon. And he did so in an emphatic fashion. Just like the four shooters before him, Aishwary gunned down his maiden senior individual medal (silver) at the marquee event on Tuesday. Moreover, the double Olympian equalled the qualification world record with an eye-catching 597 before narrowly missing out on the prized gold medal.

After a slow start, Aishwary had a slender (0.1) advantage over Paris Olympics champion Liu Yukun of China heading into the 45th and last shot of the eight-man final. It was Lui's record that Aishwary had matched during the qualification phase and now the Indian had the opportunity to finish above him. The neutrals could not have hoped for a better script as the last shot would eventually decide the world champion. Liu was the first to pull the trigger and the score read 10.1. Not a disastrous score given the circumstances but not great either. Liu's body language suggested he was far from happy with that finish. Aishwary needed to match his score or higher. The Indian bid a few seconds before finally pulling the trigger. However, all he could manage was a 9.8.

Aishwary was visibly downcast while Liu could breathe a sigh of relief before acknowledging the crowd by raising his hand. Romain Aufrere of France was the third shooter on the podium. As the dust settles, Aishwary is bound to take plenty of positives with his record-breaking effort. The 24-year-old from Madhya Pradesh has been a serial medal winner from the country over the years. Interestingly, the world record outcome is not Aishwary's personal best. During the 2025 National Games in Dehradun, he had shot an impressive 598, a tally that didn't count as an official World Record as the NG is not recognised for the same. "It was good (overall effort). In the qualification, the range situation was a little bad because of the wind but we still managed to shoot and I'm very happy with the world record. It was one of my best scores," Aishwary told ISSF channel during the post-match interview.

Niraj Kumar, the other Indian who also featured in the final, finished fifth. Niraj's relatively slow start during the kneeling and prone series cost him.

It's no surprise that Aishwary's coach, Vaibhav Sharma, was stoked with the day's outcome. "Today's (Tuesday) performance is one of Aishwary's best according to me. Given the magnitude of the event, the way he performed in the qualification and the finals, I have never seen that. Whatever competition he had today, I have high hopes that he'll be a strong contender for gold during the LA Games," Vaibhav, who has been imparting lessons to Aishwary since 2015, told this daily.

Despite his high ceiling, he had fallen short of his goals at the Olympics. With the stand-

FATHER HOPES SHOOTER CAN GET A JOB SOON

Veer Bahadur Singh, Aishwary's father, was unsurprisingly a proud man. Like most parents, he always longs for days like this. However, Veer, a farmer in Ratanpur village of Khargone district, hoped that his son could get a job at the MP Government soon. "He has already featured in two Olympics. This was the first time he qualified for the finals (senior Worlds) and won a silver. Given that he's now getting older, we hope that he can continue to do better and we're also hopeful that he'll get a job at the MP Government. This is our wish. The government had announced that (job) but he hasn't gotten it yet."

Silver for Esha & Samrat

The 10m air pistol mixed team pairing of Esha Singh and Samrat topped the qualification stage but finished with a silver medal. The Indian duo lost 10-16 against the Chinese combination of Yao Qianxu and Hu Kai in the gold-medal match.

ard of shooting sky-high, Vaibhav said that his ward had focussed on his standing (one of the integral part of his event).

Armenian Lion roars in Goa, Indians draw

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @ Chennai

THERE was a surprise visitor on the beaches of Goa a week out from the chess World Cup. It was Levon Aronian, the owner of two World Cups. Even as some of the world's best had checked into the venue after the Opening Ceremony, Aronian, one of the highest-rated players of all time, had quietly arrived with his wife in India's western coast days. He was there even before some of the FIDE guys had arrived.

Viswanathan Anand, when name-checking his favourites for the World Cup during a press conference in the first week of November, had cheekily attributed to this fact. "Levon Aronian," FIDE's deputy head had noted, "has already been on the beach here for a week and he has clearly taken it very seriously."

On Tuesday, the 43-year-old, the second-oldest GM remaining in the tournament, took a giant step towards advancing into the pre-quarterfinals with a commanding win over Radoslaw Wojtaszek, a one-time second of Anand.

Playing with white, Aronian, nicknamed the Armenian Lion, opened with the king's pawn, before developing his queen and the f bishop. Even though the US GM hadn't managed to gain an advantage out of the opening, he had managed to blitz his first 12 moves. So, while the Pole had nearly bled 30 minutes, Aronian, very much in prep, had lost only 90 seconds. And as soon as his opponent castled king side, Aronian sensed an opening. So he castled queen side to opt for a more dynamic middle game.

After trading queens, he had built a small initiative per the engines (+1.1). In the middle game, both his c and d pawns were marauding up the board. What didn't help Wojtaszek was there were a few inaccuracies. So he resigned after 36 moves.

Significance with state

As long as the World No 22 avoids defeat on Wednesday, he will advance to the last 16 to keep the dream alive but what's working for the Super GM is that he's at peace with himself. "I have no real ambition," he had said to a select group of Indian journalists before the tournament began. "I'm just excited and very grateful for this opportunity to play chess." What the 2728-rated player meant by that was simple. "My only ambition is to play my best chess. I don't have to show or prove to anybody that I'm capable of playing good chess; I know that for myself. I will be happy to win the event. I will be happy to play the World Championship match. I will also be happy to become the defender of the galaxy against the aliens (laughs)."

Even if the World Cup has seen its fair amount of top seeds fall by the wayside, Aronian has quietly made a case for himself. What's also worked for him is Goa is a pretty significant staging post in his life. When he featured here at the age-group World Championships a few decades ago, Aronian, who used to represent Armenia then, felt it would be his tournament as "I thought I had to go & study," he reminisced.

Kumble extends support to Prasad

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

INDIAN cricket stalwarts Anil Kumble and Javagal Srinath extended their support for former India pacer Venkatesh Prasad's 'Game Changers' team for the upcoming Karnataka State Cricket Association's (KSCA) polls on November 30.

In a press conference on Tuesday, Kumble explained how Karnataka cricket struggled and alleged that the work was undone in his tenure as president from 2010 to 2013.

Notably, Prasad, who is running for the president's post was vice president in the said period. "Right throughout the time that we were away from the association, the constant sort of chatter was, 'Vas-pas yavaga barthira?' (When are you returning, in Kannada)," he said.

He also pointed out the infrastructure woes. "The stadiums and other key infrastructure need a serious upgrade. Where we left off, from there to now, all of them are not in a condition where you can go and play cricket matches," he claimed. Prasad said that the team's aims to bring Karnataka cricket back to its former glory. "All the cricketers of Karnataka are behind us in this effort. Our goal is to restore the pride of Chinnaswamy Stadium, build infrastructure across the state and strengthen the pathway for young players," he said.

Vinay Mruthunjaya, former KSCA treasurer is in the fray for the secretary's post. A.V. Shashidhar (Joint Secretary), and B.N. Madhukar (Treasurer) will also contest the polls.

Days after the historic World Cup win, Gomes S catches up with India all-rounder Rana about the victory, her personal journey, the impact of the title in future and more...

SAW PRIDE IN MOTHER'S EYES: SNEH RANA

NO, it still hasn't sunk in yet," laughs Sneh Rana. It has been almost ten days since Rana and the Women in Blue made history, winning their first-ever World Cup in Navi Mumbai. The feeling and the emotions are still visible as the India all-rounder sits down for a virtual interaction with this daily. The 31-year-old from Sinaula, Uttarakhand, has waited more than a decade – a journey that has entailed multiple setbacks, injuries, personal losses and comebacks – for her moment of glory. She moved states to pursue the sport early on, suffered injuries, and went through the domestic grind. Just when she was about to make a comeback in 2021, Rana lost her father. But she never gave up, fighting for one comeback after another before becoming a World Champion.

In a conversation with this daily, Rana opens up about the World Cup win, what it means to her mom, how this could spark a revolution and more. Excerpts...

On how special the WC win was

It is very special because we have been waiting for this trophy for a long time. Not just us, but our ex-cricketers and those who have been working hard since the beginning. Everyone wanted us to lift that trophy. After coming very close, we had missed it in the past, but when we won, it was a very emotional moment. We felt very proud that we were able to do it. The party hasn't stopped yet. A lot of people are coming to the house. It is a good thing that people are recognising you. I think they are more emotional than me. And after seeing the pride in their eyes, I feel even better.

On reception at home

My mom was praying at home, continuously, so that we win. I was also praying. But, as soon as the match was over, I called home. They were awake till 2 AM, talking to me, and all. They were so excited and emotional that, finally, the Cup came home. When I arrived at the Dehradun airport, a lot of people had come to welcome me. My mother was very emotional. And, when I came home, I gave her the medal. She felt very proud. She didn't say it, but I saw it in her eyes. The happiness I saw, you can guess how proud your parents feel. My sister and brother-in-law were also very happy.

On the pressure of the home WC

I won't say that there was a lot of pressure. But we were very excited to play in front of our crowd. Because in India, you know, there is a big craze for cricket. It is considered a religion. Yes, people had a lot of expectations from us. But at the same time, we knew that the people who came would support us a lot. There was a bit of criticism when we were losing back-to-back matches. But I think any sportsperson should know how to handle it. We were far away from social media. So, we didn't know what was going on. But I think it's all because of their love. They must have been disappointed (after three losses). Maybe that's why they are saying that. But I know that our fans support us a lot. And they send us a lot of positive messages.

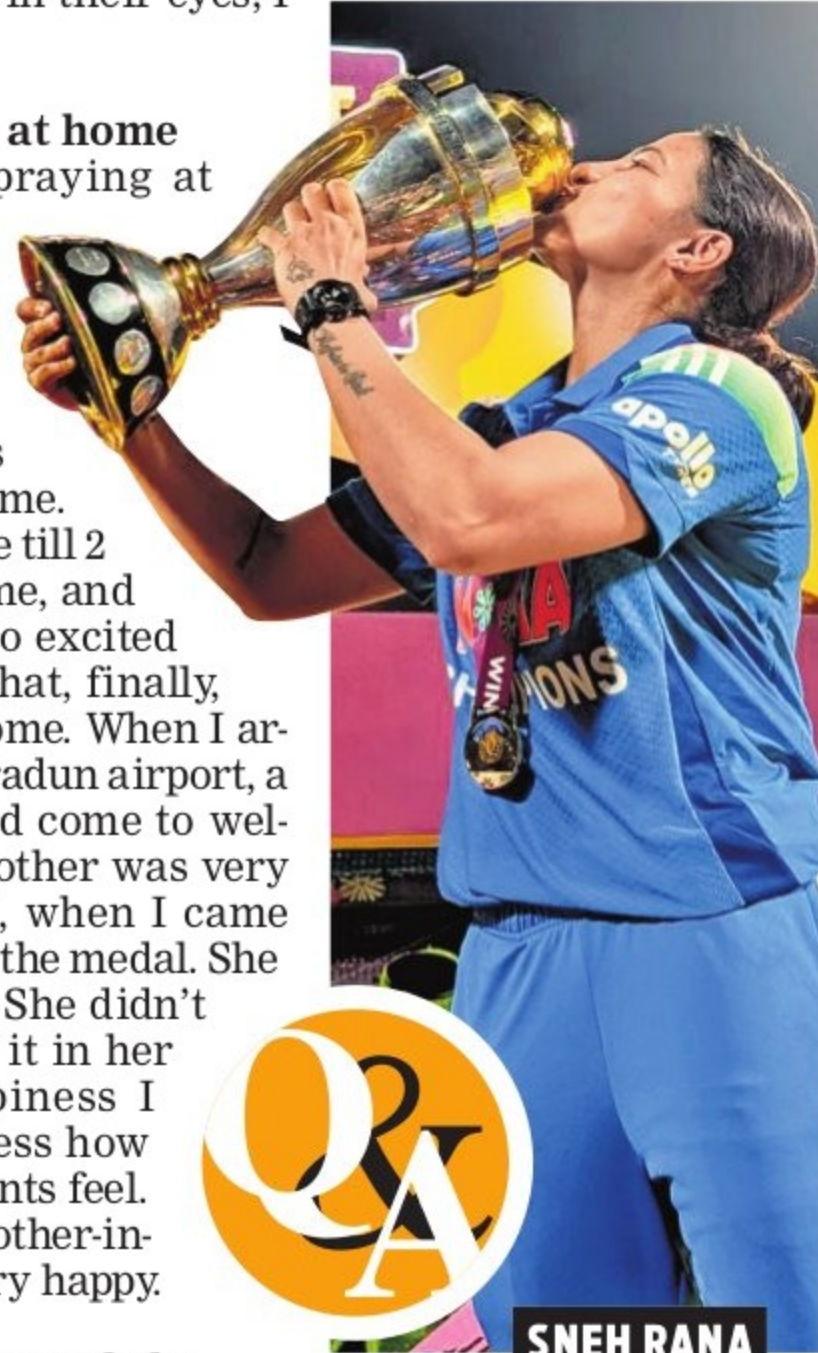

On her will to fight and make comebacks

It's like, it is in my blood to fight. And, you get some qualities from your home. I get my strength from my mother. My calmness, I got from my dad. In 2016, I got out of the team due to an injury. So, the only thing on my mind was that I had to come back. All the things I have done till now, or whatever my parents have sacrificed for me, I can't let go. That used to motivate me; that 'no, you have to do it. Not for yourself, but at least for them,' you have to do it. That was one thing on my mind when I came back in 2021. It's not like it has always been up. There have been a lot of ups and downs in the last 4-5 years. But, you should have the capacity to take that thing. I take everything very positively. If things work out, great. If it doesn't, that is okay too.

On her ever-positive mindset

I am like this, from the start. You get these things from home, too. My parents are like that. They never put any extra pressure. If something works out, it is good. Whatever is happening, it's happening for the best. So, they were like that. Their thinking is like that.

KEY CONCEPTS

Food-gene interaction

1 Nutrigenomics investigates how dietary components, like vitamins and fatty acids, can alter gene expression and metabolic pathways

Gene-food interaction

2 It also explores how an individual's genetic makeup influences their body's response to specific nutrients, affecting things like absorption and metabolism

Personalised nutrition

3 A key aim is to use this information to create tailored dietary plans for individuals based on their unique genetic profile to optimise health and prevent disease

Genome health

4 A related concept, 'genome health nutrigenomics', focuses on defining dietary intake levels that minimize damage to the genome at a molecular level

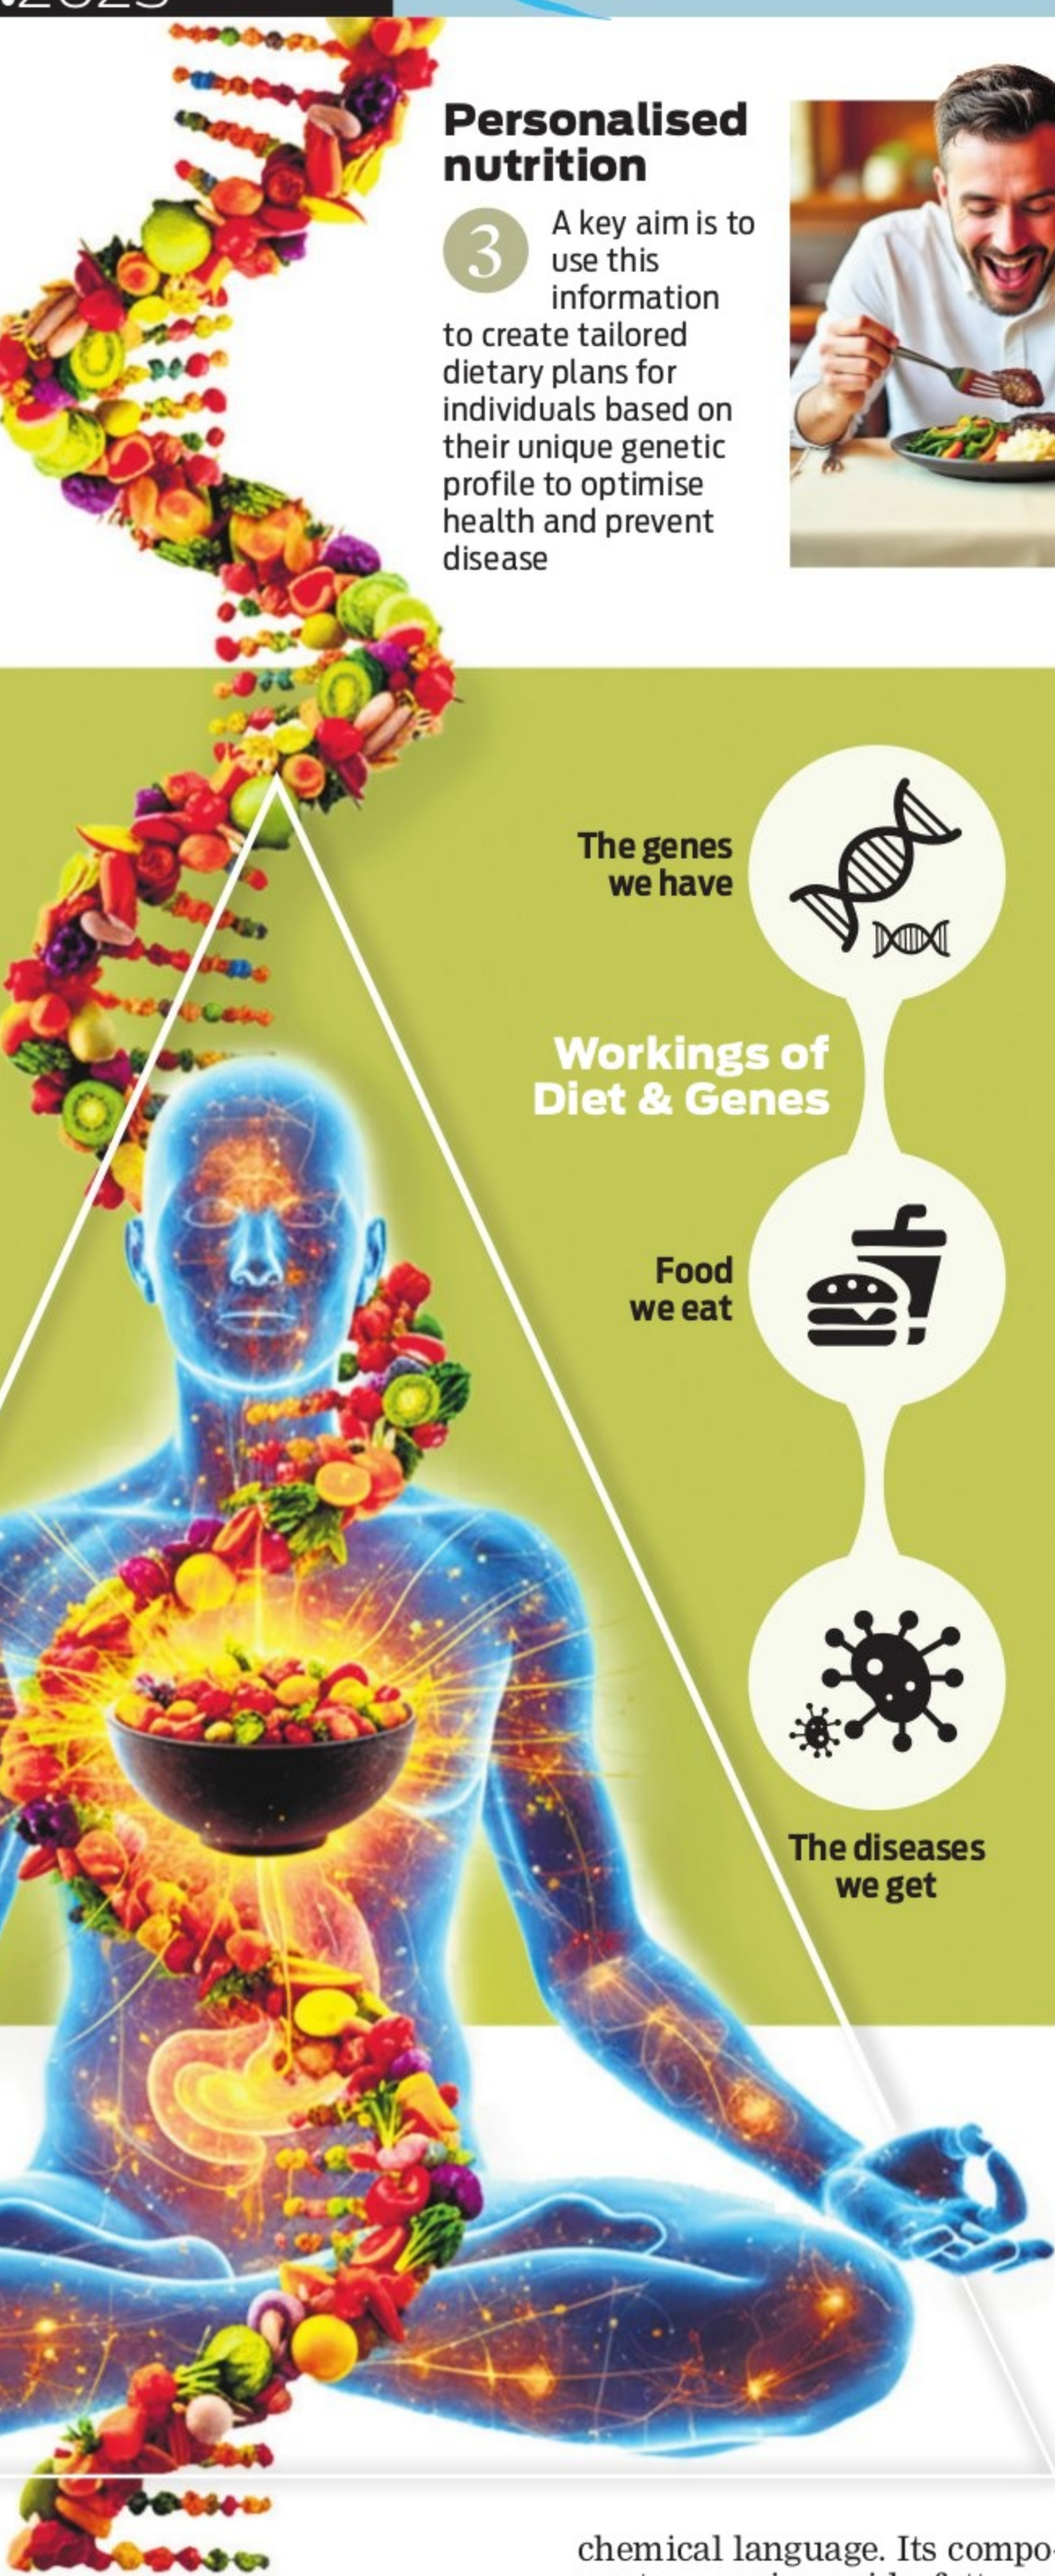

The Evolutionary Menu

From the fireside feasts of early humans to the gene-aware diets of tomorrow, the relationship between food and life has always been intimate. Nutrigenomics doesn't replace that story, but decodes it. It tells us that evolution isn't just written in our genes; it's also written in what we eat

HRITHIK KIRAN BAGADE

FOR most of human history, food was simply fuel — a means to survive, to work, and to raise the next generation. But in the 21st century, food is taking on a new role — a biological messenger — capable of speaking directly to our genes. The science of nutrigenomics explores this remarkable conversation, of how nutrients influence gene activity, and how our genetic makeup shapes our individual responses to food. It's a field that not only promises personalised nutrition, but also offers fresh insights into how diet has steered human evolution itself.

Every meal we eat sets off a molecular symphony inside the body. Beyond calories, fats, or vitamins, food is a complex chemical language. Its components — amino acids, fatty acids, phytochemicals, and micronutrients — can trigger signals that reach the very heart of our cells:

HOW IT WORKS

Why the sky should be violet, and not blue

HRITHIK KIRAN BAGADE

IT'S one of the first things we learn as children — that the sky is blue. Yet, if we were to consult pure science rather than perception, we would discover that the sky should actually appear violet. The reason lies not in the colour of the atmosphere itself, but in how sunlight interacts with the gases that envelop our planet, and how our own eyes interpret that light.

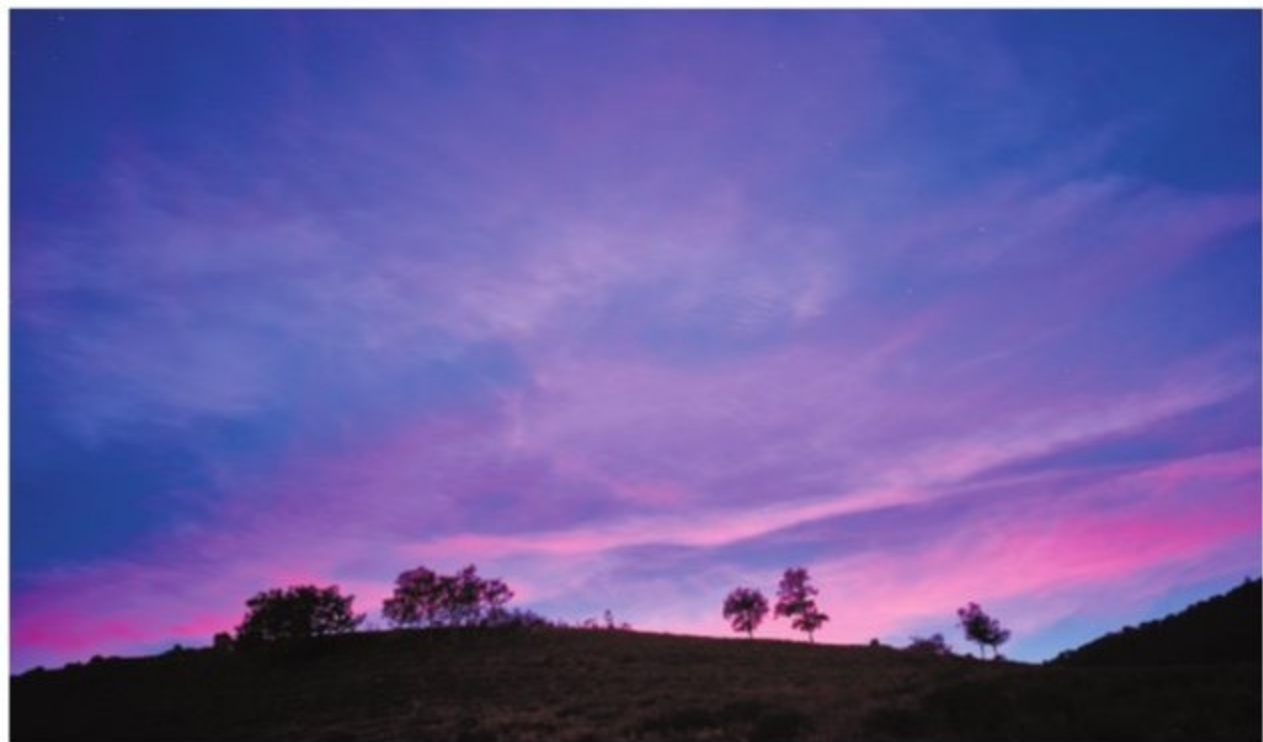

Sunlight, or white light, is a mixture of all the colours of the visible spectrum — from red, orange, and yellow to green, blue, indigo, and violet. When sunlight enters Earth's atmosphere, it encounters molecules of nitrogen and oxygen that scatter the light in all directions. This scattering is known as 'Rayleigh Scattering', named after the British physicist Lord Rayleigh who first described it in the 19th century. Importantly, this scattering is not equal across all wavelengths: shorter wavelengths of light (towards the blue and violet end of the spectrum) are scattered far more efficiently — nearly ten times more than red light.

In theory, this means violet light, being at the shortest wavelength of the visible spectrum, should dominate the scattered light that reaches our eyes from all directions. If physics alone dictated our perception, we would look up to see a soft violet canopy stretching across the heavens. Yet, the sky appears blue instead, and the reason lies in the biology of human vision and the nature of sunlight itself. The human eye contains three types of cone cells, each sensitive to different parts of the spectrum — red, green, and blue. Our eyes are most sensitive to blue light, but considerably less so to violet. Though violet light is scattered more, our visual system simply does not pick it up as efficiently. Moreover, some of the violet light is absorbed by the upper layers of the atmosphere, particularly by ozone, which further reduces the amount of violet light that reaches us.

Additionally, sunlight is not perfectly balanced in its colour composition. The Sun emits slightly less violet light compared to blue, so the blue wavelengths dominate once the effects of scattering and human perception combine.

In essence, the sky's true hue is hidden by both the quirks of our biology and the filtering properties of our atmosphere. The heavens above are scientifically violet, yet appear blue to the human eye, a gentle reminder that what we see is not always what truly is.

BEHIND THE SCIENCE

GUIDO Adler stands as one of the most influential figures in the history of musicology — the scientific study of music. Born on November 1, 1855, in Ivancice, then part of the Austrian Empire (now in the Czech Republic), Adler's life and work helped shape musicology from a branch of philosophy and aesthetics into an independent academic discipline. His contributions laid the foundation for how music is studied, analysed, and understood today.

Adler studied law and music at the University of Vienna, where he later became a professor. Deeply influenced by the intellectual climate of late 19th-century Vienna, he sought to give musicology a systematic and empirical framework similar to that of the natural sciences. In 1885, he published his seminal essay 'Umfang, Methode und Ziel der Musikwissenschaft' (Scope, Method, and Aim of Musicology), which became the cornerstone of modern musicological thought. In this essay, Adler proposed dividing the field into two main branches: historical musicology, concerned with the evolution of musical styles and composers over time; and systematic musicology, which examines the theory, aesthetics, acoustics, and psychology of music. This dual structure remains central to musicology today. Adler also founded the journal Vierteljahrsschrift für Musikwissenschaft (Quarterly Journal for Musicology), the first scholarly periodical dedicated to the discipline. His efforts created a professional platform for research and discourse, transforming musicology into a recognised academic field. Beyond theory, Adler contributed significantly to practical scholarship: he was an editor for the monumental Denkmäler der Tonkunst in Österreich (Monuments of Musical Art in Austria), a series that preserved and published critical editions of early Austrian music.

Throughout his career, Adler combined historical rigour with aesthetic sensitivity, influencing generations of scholars and students, including Anton Webern and Egon Wellesz. His work bridged the gap between art and science, arguing that music, though deeply emotional, could be understood through structured analysis and historical context. Adler's legacy lies in his vision of musicology as both a humanistic and scientific pursuit. Through his methods, writings, and teaching, he ensured that the study of music became not merely a passion but a disciplined inquiry — a living dialogue between history, sound, and scholarship. He died on February 15, 1941, in Vienna.

CE speaks to Shanka Tribe about their latest EP (Extended Play) 12-year-long career, evolving soundscape, and more

Taal & Trance

SAFAHATH C N

BORN from the vibrant heartlands of northern Kerala, the Bengaluru-based band, Shanka Tribe, has carved a niche in the Indian independent music scene. Their journey began when Munna P M and Joel Jackson, then college students and friendly drum battle rivals, found themselves wanting something beyond commercial gigs. With Libin Noby joining in, the seeds of what would then become Shanka Tribe were sown.

Over the years, Ashwin Lal, Sreeraj K, and Hari Krishnan completed the circle, evolving the band into a five-piece ensemble that channels a shared philosophy – rhythm can connect what words often can't.

The 'tribe' opens every performance with the blowing of the Shanku, a conch shell that signifies purification and awakening, inviting the audience into a journey of connection and inner elevation.

Their latest EP, Umoja brings together the beats of African Djembes, the meditative hum of Australian Dideridoos, the melodies of West Asian Oud, and India's Morchang.

Ahead of their performance in Bengaluru scheduled for November 21, Shanka Tribe opened up about their roots, evolving sound, and how they translate complex ideas into instrumental music. Excerpts:

Your music has evolved over twelve years. What are your inspirations?
Our inspiration always comes from life – the people we meet, the places we travel to, the stillness we find between moments. We never plan our sound. We just follow what feels honest at that time.

How do you incorporate tribal instruments with conventional ones like guitar and keyboard?
Every instrument has a personality. The Dideridoo has an earthy breath; the Handpan brings warmth; the Oud carries old-world stories. We spend time understanding how they respond to each other. There's no formula; it's about balance.

Umoja is based on the African concept of unity. How did you come across this as an Indian band?
We realised that unity is a feeling that goes beyond borders. All our tracks carried that energy of connection between rhythm and silence, body and soul. The word Umoja captured it perfectly.

How do you ensure complex themes are translated through music alone?

Music already speaks a universal language. We use rhythm to express energy, melody for emotion, and space for reflection. When these come together, they tell a story that everyone can feel.

In Umoja, visuals add another layer, turning it from a composition into a sensory, meditative journey.

In the early days, our music leaned heavily on live, organic trance and improvisation. Later, we began blending tribal grooves with modern production, giving our music more texture and depth.

Today, our creative process moves between stage and studio. This has made our music more intentional, while keeping the raw spirit.

Why create the EP as a continuous, 20-minute track?

We wanted people to experience it like a journey, not a playlist. Life doesn't have cuts between emotions, so we didn't want pauses between songs. The transitions between tracks are seamless, guiding you through waves of rhythm, stillness, and emotion. It invites you to slow down.

What was it like collaborating with Rex Vijayan and Neha S Nair?

Rex has been a constant support since our early days. He brings a certain calm and depth to the sound. With Neha, her vocals gave Karmi a grounded, human touch. She adds emotion that feels both intimate and universal.

How do you see the current Indian music landscape?

It's changing fast. Independent musicians are finding their own audiences without depending on film or mainstream media. There's so much experimentation and courage in the scene. Listeners are also evolving; they're open to sounds that are different or spiritual. It's an exciting time.

How do you see the band's future – will you consider cinema?

We're open to any space where our music can breathe. Cinema would be interesting if it aligned with our spirit. But our main focus will always be on creating immersive experiences. In 2026, we're planning a European summer tour and an Australian spring tour, with plans to perform at major global music festivals.

Akin to a mini forest, this Bengaluru couple's house opens the door to a haven of rich greenery and calming aesthetics, far away from the hullabaloo of the city

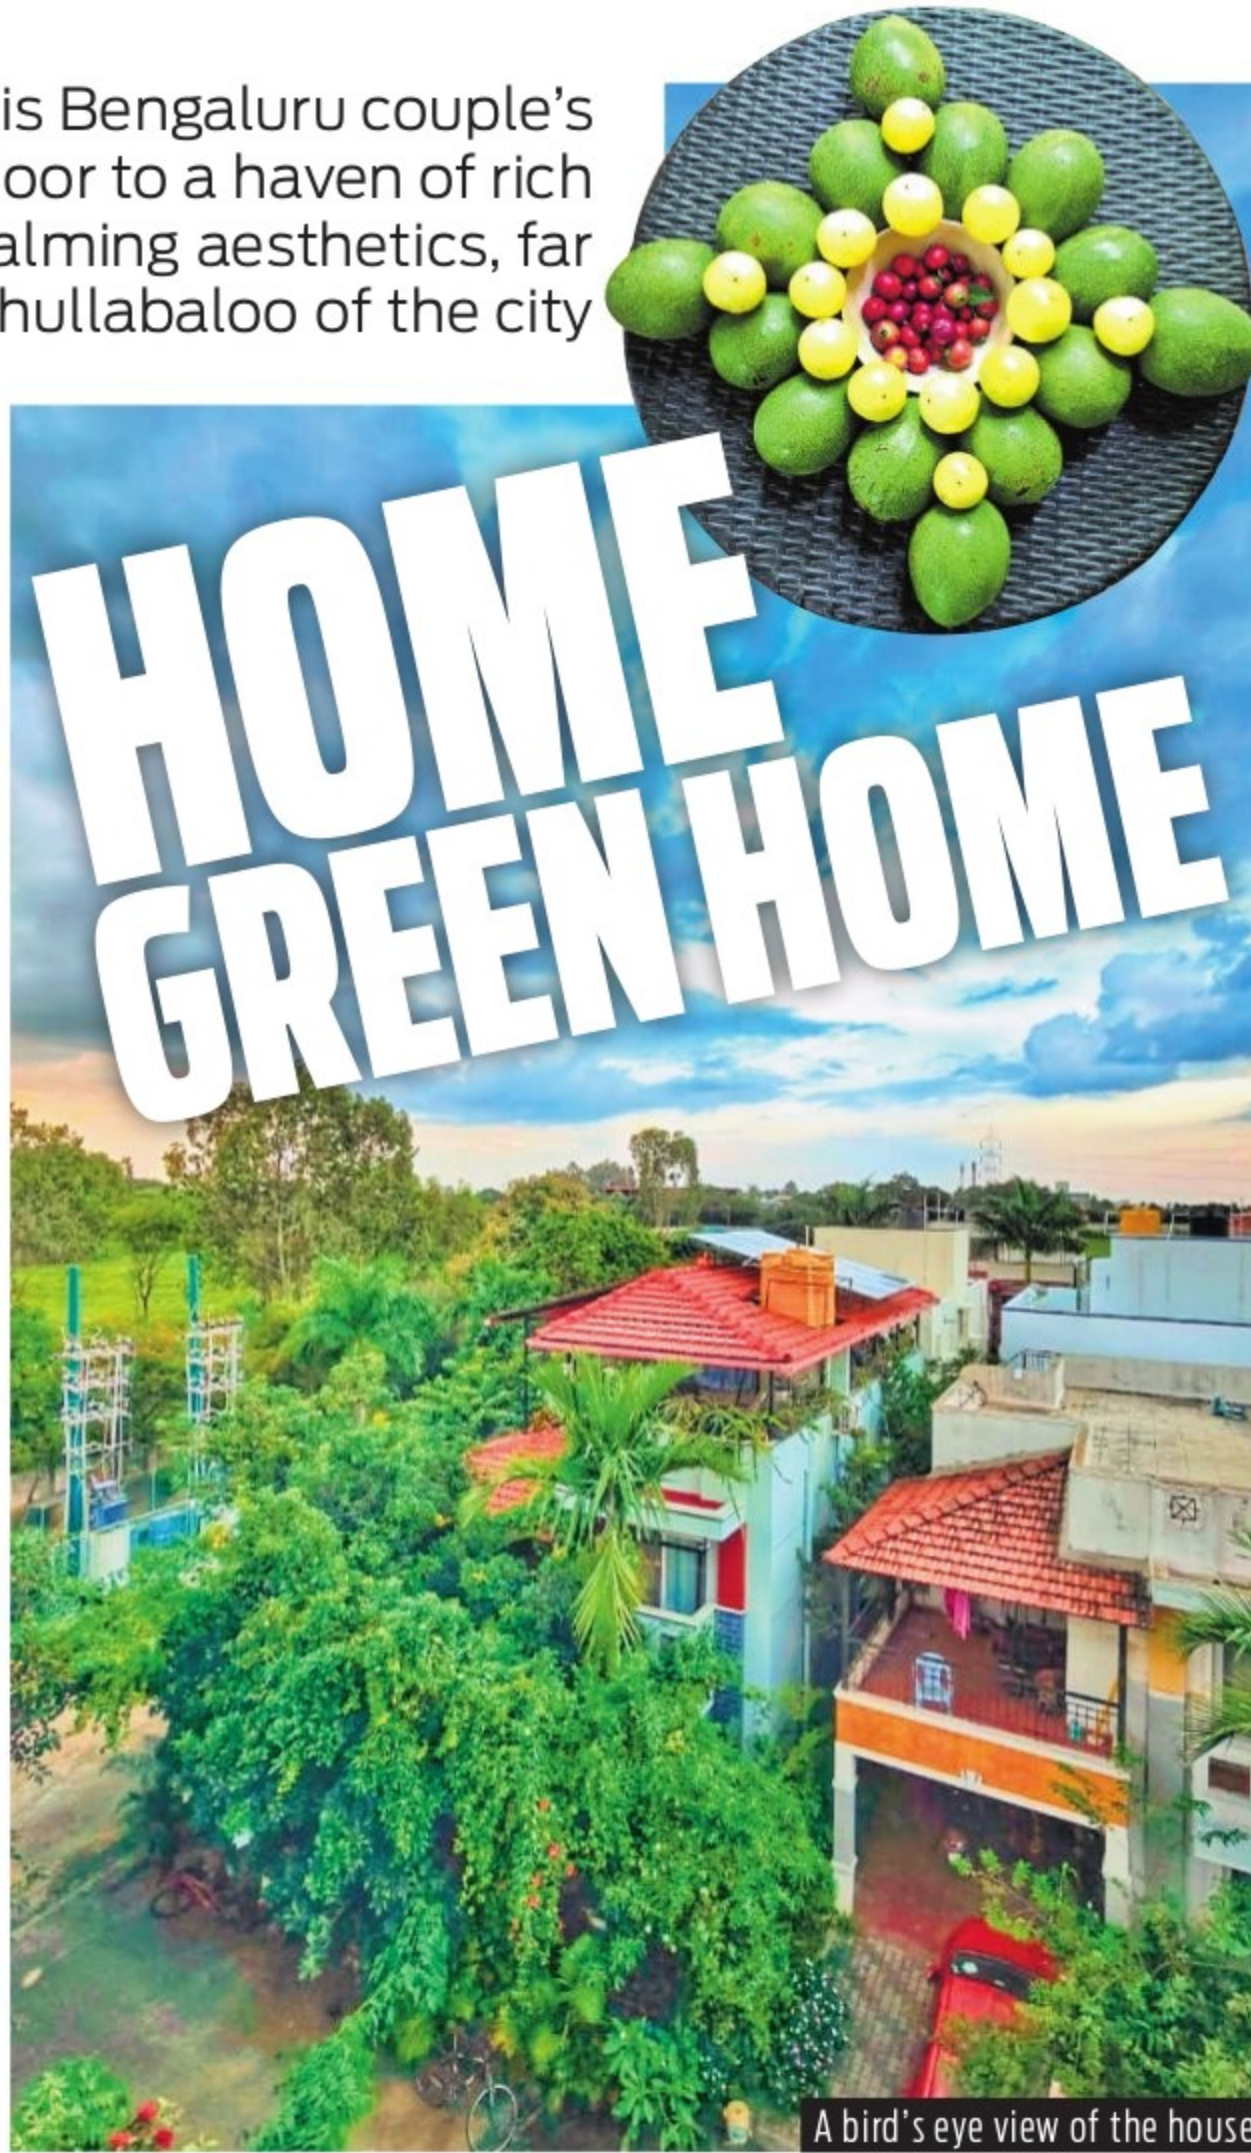

ANJALI RAM

IMAGINE a home that feels like a walk through the woods, where sunlight filters through leaves, mornings begin with the cooing of birds and you breathe in the scent of petrichor, with a sight of the calming greenery. That's exactly what Sumesh Nayak and his family feel to see and feel at their 1,500sqft home in Sarjapura. Their home is proof that even amidst the city chaos, calm can grow, quite literally, from the ground.

Hailing from a small town in Kerala, Nayak migrated to Bengaluru in 2007. However, what he missed the most was the small garden space in his native. "We tried to recreate my parents' home and this is how it turned out to be," recalls Nayak, talking about the inspiration behind the dream home.

A major attraction is the large wooden swing that sits at the heart of the house – often swayed by a gentle breeze. "Most first-time visitors are drawn to the swing," Nayak shares. The swing hangs in a long, open space, with the living room to the right, a dining area to the left, and a kitchen at the far end. "It's peaceful. You can sit and look at the paintings or the plants outside," he adds. Other additions include fountains and wall decor.

Inside, sunlight filters through tall windows, glinting off brass lamps and family heirlooms. The house, filled with warm wood tones and touches of brass, carries stories within its walls. "Some of the brass items have been passed down from our parents. But most were collected from our travels. Each one reminds of a moment or a place," he explains. For them, these pieces, though small, tell a story of continuity – of carrying memories forward while creating new ones.

Building An Empire

This quiet, organic rhythm extends to the garden, a thriving patch of green where fruits, flowers, and birds coexist. "We have fruits throughout the year. We let nature take its share and then we take ours," Nayak says. One of his favourites is the avocado tree. "Last year, we got about 250 avocados and shared them with around 70 friends and family. Everyone said it tasted nothing like the ones from the store." Each avocado, he says, carries the joy of patience, of nurturing something for years and seeing it give back in abundance. The garden was grown over 12 years. "It hasn't been a single-day process. We've divided the garden into sections and every weekend, we clean, prune, and check for infections. Nature has its own pace, no matter how much you water or feed, a plant will bloom only when it's time," Nayak says as highlighting the importance of consistency.

The Secret Ingredient

The air is cooler at the house, softer somehow, filled with the

A traditional fountain in the lush space

Homeowners Sumesh and Meethu Nayak sit on a wooden swing adorning their green verandah scent of wet earth and fruiting trees. The house runs entirely on solar power. "We generate electricity from the panels. The extra goes back into the grid," he explains. The kitchen, too, is part of this cycle of sustainability. "We mostly cook on induction; the gas cylinder is only for backup," he adds. Water, often wasted in urban homes, is treasured here. "We have a rainwater harvesting system that we use to water the garden. And kitchen waste doesn't go to the bin, it becomes compost for the plants," Nayak shares.

Their secret mantra in creating a lush greenery? Zero chemicals or pesticides. "We keep it natural and organic," Nayak explains, stating, "When you take care of the soil naturally, the plants become stronger. They build their own immunity, just like humans do when they eat healthy."

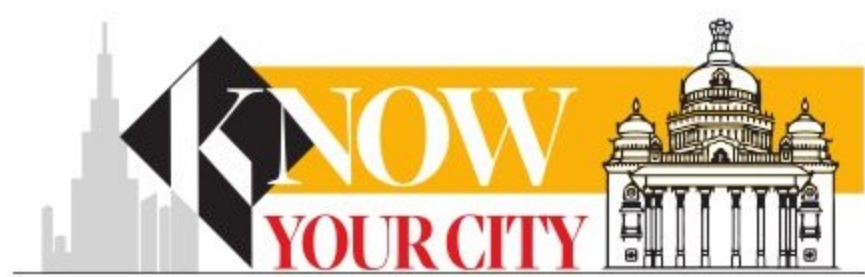

Bringing Nature Home

Nayak's favourite view is from his home office window, watching a mulberry tree grow. "The birds love it. It's fun to watch while working," he notes. Inside the house, the interiors mirror the garden's calmness. Wooden furniture, earthy tones, and plenty of natural light make the indoors feel like an extension of the outdoors. The Tanjore, Pattachitra, Madhubani, Pichwai, paintings on the walls invite an old-world charm. "People are slowly losing connection with nature," he exclaims. "But when you bring a bit of it into your home through natural materials, it changes how you live," he believes. Above all, it's a reminder that even in the middle of the city chaos, one can live in tune with the earth, enjoying a slow morning when needed.

A PRACTICAL GUIDE TO TIME-RESTRICTED EATING FOR EFFECTIVE WEIGHT MANAGEMENT

Avoiding certain foods or restricting your diet is a common strategy to lose weight. Sometimes, this might work while sometimes, it's not easy.

Time Restricted Eating (TRE), is a form of intermittent fasting where you focus not on what you eat, but when you eat. In this regimen, you restrict your daily eating to specific hours. The idea behind this is that by restricting the eating window, your body may adapt to eating less overall. And by aligning with daily rhythms, one might improve metabolic health.

HOW IT WORKS

- Pick an 8-hour eating window (for example 10 am–6 pm) and a 16-hour fast outside that window.
- A more moderate setup is a 12-hour eating window (for example 8 am–8 pm) and 12 hours of fasting.
- The aim is for balanced meals: whole grains, sufficient protein, healthy fats, and plenty of fruits & vegetables.
- During the fasting window you can consume water, black coffee, herbal or green tea (no calories).

KEY LIFESTYLE HABITS TO SUPPORT IT

To maximise benefit and sustainability:

- Ensure your energy intake supports your activity.

- Push your larger meals earlier in the day during your feeding window.

- Stay hydrated during fasting hours – but keep away from high-calorie drinks or snacks.

- Recognise real life: If social occasions or late dinners make consistent TRE hard, you can plan for flexibility (for example a larger first meal and a smaller last meal).

BENEFITS OF TIME-RESTRICTED EATING

TRE is more than weight management. It comes with a myriad of other health benefits, that varies on person's age and gender, such as:

- Controls glucose level among pre-diabetics.
- A four-week time restricted regime with reduced cholesterol levels helps improve heart health.
- Fasting helps in cellular rejuvenation by boosting the production of anti-aging molecule called ketones.
- Fasting reduces cells called monocytes in the blood, reducing the risk of inflammation and related health problems.

TRE is an easy-to-adapt dietary approach where you don't have to follow a rigorous diet. All you have to do is just be mindful of the meal and its quality.

YOU'RE a normal Indian – paying your taxes and minding your business in a quickly maddening world. On some days, you take the 'wrong route' or bargain with a street-vendor – but overall, you're a decent human being trying to be a little better every day. You read about calories and calorie counting. As a rational person, you KNOW that the only way to really lose weight is by being in a calorie deficit. You decide to give it a shot. After all, 'Success is stumbling from failure to failure with no loss of enthusiasm,' said Winston Churchill. But then, Churchill also caused the famine in Bengal, where people starved for food! No good can come from overthinking, you tell yourself. Food is a privilege. Annam Brahma. You shall be respectful towards food and eat mindfully.

Lunch, you remind yourself, can be managed. Most young Indians have sacrificed lunch at the altar of a job. Once, it was a warm affair cooked lovingly at home. Now, it's a sad sandwich between meetings, or a burger eaten in front of a dead screen. You've controlled lunch; conquered the highest peak. You pat yourself on the back – metaphorically, of course. Doing it physically will require further weight loss. And then, the weekend arrives. You step out with your friends and order a seemingly harmless Amritsari kulcha. It's Amritsar, after all. The land of sports, athletes and medals. You wolf down the kulcha, Google the calories, and BAM! 830 calories gone. The channa with it? Another 340. The lassi (you heard bhaiyya say 'malai maarke') – another 400! In one sitting, you've consumed the recommended calorie intake of a small Himalayan village.

You resolve to redeem yourself through discipline. You skip dessert. And the saunf (80 calories). You walk around your building like an intergalactic hamster, and your phone sends you a notification – 'You lost 70 calories!'. Only to realise that it's worth ONE Tiger biscuit. Heartbreaking. Like that one lonely tiger roaming around in a private zoo. You meet a friend, you have chai. You take a smoke break, you have chai. A smoke break takes you – chai. By evening, you've consumed five chais – each cup a 200-calorie colonial tax to the British. You return home defeated, like an Indian opener on a bouncy Australian pitch.

They say you should have breakfast like a founder, lunch like a manager and dinner like an intern. Dinner is your final shot, your redemption meal. You ordered idli-vada. No! Strike out the vada (fried). Just two idlis – 200 calories. Perfect! You have the idlis and they're tasty. As you bask in the glory of your willpower, you realise that you forgot to check the calories in the chutney! BAM, another 300 calories. At the end of Day 1, the scoreboard reads 2,243 for the loss of self-respect.

Maybe calorie counting is a Western concept, you tell yourself. These white people took away our gold and spices – and created a system to limit us from eating what remains. You ponder on these thoughts as the morning chai arrives. It's a new day. The sun is up, and one must go about trying to earn an honest living. You take a sip. And ask for a biscuit.

Bam! That's 300 calories. You know what? Let it be. You're just an Indian, trying to get by in a quickly maddening world. Kohli and Rohit have moved on, and so must you. We are the land of honey and milk. Calorie counting doesn't suit our ilk. What we need is calorie estimating. Or calorie hoping. Or calorie praying.

DIYA MARIA GEORGE

BENEATH the vast, breathing canopy of the Naga hills, where stones skimmed across rivers could vanish into thin air and the stories of old clung to the mountain mist, a young boy named Kato once ran. His journey, from the innocence of skipping stones to the weight of adulthood, is the story of Huthuka Sumi's debut, Giants (₹299, HarperCollins). It is a narrative that stretches across decades, rooted in the rich soil of Sumi culture, asking questions about memory, change, and the marks left by the land that shapes us.

In an exclusive interview with CE, the author Huthuka Sumi delves into the heart of his creation. Excerpts:

■ Kato's childhood is vividly brought to life, from skipping stones to outrunning his mother. How did you approach capturing the innocence and mischief of a child in this unique setting?
 I don't think we ever outgrew our childhood. It just finds a nice, cosy place inside us to hibernate like the bears, and if we ever need it, it's right there. Writing about a boy who was so much like me in my childhood required me to call upon the dear old friend who'd cosied up deep within my soul; and as simple as that sounds, the adult constantly got in the way.

■ Kato's mother comes across as a hardworking, determined presence. How much of her character is inspired by real-life memories or people in your life?
 Very much drawn from real people! Like women everywhere, Naga women too have consistently managed a heroic balance of strength and tenderness. They've not simply lurked in the background, but shaped the mountains and hills where they walked. In Nisheli,

Author of the book Giants speaks about the creation of a plot set in picturesque Naga hills, woven with folklores, myths, and memories

STORIES ETCHED ON HILLS

Kato's mother, I see reflections of my own mother, my aunts, my neighbours and villagers. I've sought to pay tribute to them in her quiet courage and unwavering resilience.

■ The prologue and epilogue span decades and show Kato at very different stages of life. How did you decide to structure the narrative this way?
Giants is first and foremost about change and the decisions it forces on us. Naga history has witnessed upheavals and traumatic change, and Kato is a personification of us as a people. Will we tell our stories with our own voice? Will we find hope, after all? This needed a before and an after.

■ The story blends reality with elements that feel almost mythical, like the stones that vanish mid-air. How do you balance realism and magical elements in your writing?

The real and the fantastic aren't as removed from each other as many of us believe. They weave and dance together, finding their way into our consciousness through words like coincidence, happenstance, etc. As someone who grew up with folklore, it wasn't something that I really had to work for. As anti-climactic as it may sound, it came naturally.

■ The book is rich in local language, traditions, and even food, terms like jhum cultivation, hekimini, and aliha appear throughout. How did you decide which cultural elements to include and how to present them for a broader audience?
 On this, there was a very intentional thought process. I wanted to present a very organic picture of our culture without turning it into an anthropological exercise. Whatever I felt had symbolic resonance, I kept. What felt like appendages, I omitted.

■ The mountains and villages in your book almost feel like living characters themselves. How did the geography and natural environment influence the story?

 The land is a very strong concept in the book. I believe that as much as we shape the land around us, it too shapes us and claims us. The mountains and the geography aren't just settings but characters in Giants.

■ How do stories within stories like myths and local folklore interact with Kato's own journey?
 There is a misconception that our tribal lore is simplistic and atavistic. It couldn't be more wrong. There is philosophy, systems, and moral codes woven into them. Every story in the book, even those I created, have this cadence, and each is a microcosm of the journey that Kato takes. The story of the tigers and the man who was marked to be devoured by them is about the inevitability of where Kato's journey will take him. At the end, despite the enormity of what he faces, will he have courage to stare back at it?

■ Your writing explores 'liminal spaces' where symbols speak more than literal words. How does this philosophy influence the way you write about childhood, memory, and identity?
 I do not think that memory is singular or transient; it is a deep well from which the whole of humanity draws from, and adds to, again and again. Perhaps that is why symbols are so powerful, so universal, because all of us access them from the same place. I believe that symbolism is the greatest tool in storytelling. It can bridge cultures and differences.

■ If someone has never been to the Naga hills or experienced Sumi culture, what do you hope they take away from the book?
 I'd want the reader to feel breathless from the expansiveness of the mountain air. I'd want them to smile at the ordinariness of the lives of my characters. I'd want them to feel something for a boy, a people, who they'll never meet. Or maybe they will...

Book on feminism for today's men

Author Harshveer Jain, with Putting the Toilet Seat Down: A Man's Guide to Feminism (₹499, Penguin), reinforces that feminism isn't just for women but also frees men from limiting roles. The book is a mirror held up to the modern man still fumbling his way through feminism. With humour as his weapon and honesty as his guide, Jain breaks down gender, privilege and power without jargon or judgment. The book also tackles cultural flashpoints by dismantling the 'alpha male' myth, rejecting the dehumanising 'simp' label, and providing practical tools to understand consent in dating and relationships.

MEGHANA RAJ SARJA RETURNS TO TAMIL CINEMA WITH RAJINIKANTH'S JAILER 2

The award-winning actor, celebrated in Kannada and Malayalam cinema, is stepping into the star-studded sequel of Nelson Dilipkumar's action-comedy, marking a major pan-Indian milestone

A SHARADHAA

RAJINIKANTH'S Jailer 2 is already one of the biggest talking points in Indian cinema, and the latest update about the film is that Meghana Raj Sarja has reportedly joined the cast. Jailer 2 is the eagerly awaited sequel to the 2023 blockbuster Jailer, directed by Nelson. Meghana, who was last seen in the Tamil film, Nanda Nanditha (2012), is set for a grand comeback in this pan-Indian film that stars some of the industry's biggest names.

Meghana, known for her recent performance in Tatsama Tadbhava and having earned a state award for Iruvudellava Bittu (2018), is currently awaiting the release of Buddhivanthu 2. Her return to Tamil cinema follows earlier appearances in Kaadhala Solla Vandhen (2010), and Uyarthiru 420 (2011), marking her steady re-entry into multiple South Indian film industries.

Meghana, who had a decent run in Malayalam cinema, is returning to the industry with Ottakomban, starring Suresh Gopi in the lead. The film, which is now under production, is helmed by Mathews Thomas. But all eyes are on Jailer 2, which has the potential to give a boost to her return to cinema. Produced by Kalanithi Maran under Sun Pictures, the action-comedy sequel features Ramya Krishnan, Yogi Babu, and Mirnaa reprising their roles from the first film. It is also confirmed that Shiva Rajkumar, who was part of the original, returns for the sequel. Other names being attached to the sequel include Mohanlal, who played a starring role in the first part, SJ Suryah, Mithun Chakraborty, Vidya Balan, and Santhanam.

According to sources, Meghana, who is said to be playing a pivotal role in the film, has already joined the sets and has been shooting for the last few days. While official confirmation and details of her role are still under wraps, sources suggest that this film could mark a significant step in her Tamil comeback and expand her pan-South Indian appeal.

Meanwhile, Meghana continues her Kannada commitments with Sringer on the film Amartha. With Jailer 2 already generating massive anticipation, it will be interesting to see how Meghana Raj Sarja orchestrates the next steps of her career as a pan-Indian actor.

Directed by Karen Kshiti Suvarna, the Hindi film stars Pravin Singh Sisodia and Amit Bhel, and will be dubbed into Kannada and other languages

Priyanka Upendra

Priyanka Upendra transforms into a caregiver in September 21

CE FEATURES

THERE'S a rare kind of courage in empathetically witnessing another person's erosion. Debutant director Karen Kshiti Suvarna aims to turn that courage into cinema with his film, September 21. The film is billed as an emotional drama centred around caregivers, whose labour is quiet, complex, and often invisible.

Priyanka Upendra plays the role of Kamala, a caregiver, in the film, and the makers unveiled her look on the actor's birthday. Priyanka appears in a completely deglam role, portraying a woman who leaves her own life behind to tend to a 65-year-old man with Alzheimer's, played by Pravin Singh Sisodia. Diallying down the melodrama, September 21 instead showcases the dignity in endurance. Kamala, pragmatic and fiercely human, steps in when the patient's own family retreats. "This isn't about the patient alone," Karen says, adding, "It's the caregivers who carry the real burden. The patient may not know; the caregiver never stops knowing."

Karen recalls being drawn to the subject with instant conviction. "I saw faces, small moments that felt like memory slipping on film," she explains. "I read and spoke to families. What struck me was how little India truly understands Alzheimer's." The filmmaker doesn't reveal much about the reasoning behind the title, and assures that it does hold immense significance.

The film features cinematography by Anil Kumar K, music by Vinay Chandra, and also stars Amit Bhel in a pivotal role. Supported by NFDC's Work in Progress Lab, the project has Preety Ali (wife of Imtiaz Ali) on board as co-producer. Currently preparing for festival rounds, the team is eyeing a 2026 theatrical release. The Indian Association of Alzheimer's Societies joins as an institutional partner, lending social depth and outreach.

Karen avoids sentimentality in the film, focusing instead on daily acts like washing, feeding, and remembering. The film hopes to position caregivers as someone with empathy and understanding, and not as a martyr that can be easily exalted and forgotten. "Caregiving is not a role. It is a life that demands you forget yourself so another can be remembered," says Priyanka.

Building on Karen's acclaimed short Hide & Seek (on schizophrenia), September 21 aims to amplify a conversation India rarely has.

ROOPESH Shetty's journey illustrates perseverance, reinvention, and relentless ambition. Sharing a challenging time early in his career, Roopesh says, "As an actor in Tulu cinema, I initially faced eight consecutive flops. I even thought about moving abroad, but my passion for acting and storytelling brought me back to filmmaking. It was tough, but I learned that waiting for the perfect script wasn't enough. I always wanted to be an actor, but I realised that if I wanted my stories to be told the way I envisioned, I had to direct them myself."

This determination led to Girgit, Roopesh's directorial debut, which became a blockbuster. It secured his place not only in Tulu cinema but outside, too. Now, with Jai set to release on November 14, Roopesh aims higher: "Tulu cinema was my beginning, but my vision has always been global. With Jai set for a release in Tulu and Kannada, we have been able to premiere this film across India and internationally, in Muscat, Dubai, Bahrain, Qatar, Oman, and even Saudi Arabia. I wanted to show that Tulu or Kannada films can resonate worldwide, and we achieved that," says a proud Roopesh.

The film's story, set in the fictional village of Simhabettu, mixes social commentary with entertainment. "Politics starts at the ground level, in villages, affecting every community. While it's not about any particular party, it reflects societal truths and the struggles of those who support leaders, only to be let down. That's the essence of Jai."

Roopesh stresses the universal nature of the theme. "While it could have remained a Tulu story, we wanted it to reach audiences in many languages. Cinema should cross boundaries. With Girgit, we began premiering in various cities and countries; with Jai, we continued that path," says Roopesh, who makes it clear that the directorial journey was anything but easy. "Direction requires time, patience, and persistence. Completing Jai took two and a half years," points out Roopesh.

Jai also features a terrific ensemble, lead by Suniel Shetty. "Suniel Sir did this without any remuneration. His presence creates a major turning point. Deepak Raj Shetty and Advithi Shetty help carry the narrative forward," reveals the filmmaker.

For Roopesh, evolving from being a Tulu actor to a filmmaker with a global perspective is very personal. "I want to create films that entertain, provoke thought, and can be appreciated anywhere. From local beginnings to international screens, that's the path I'm carving for myself and for Tulu cinema. Setbacks can become milestones if ambition and vision lead the way."

Jai was perfect to showcase my love for Tulu Cinema: Advithi Shetty

Advithi Shetty is making her debut in Tulu cinema with Jai, made under RS Cinemas, which will also be released in Kannada. She plays a positive and supportive role as a news reporter and has already gained attention with one of the film's songs and her appearances at the premieres. "For me, the story was the most important thing. I wanted my Tulu debut to reach a wide audience. Jai was perfect to showcase my talent and my love for the language. It was also my father's dream. Though he is not with us, I know he would be proud," says an emotional Advithi. She expresses gratitude to Roopesh for the opportunity. "Being in a scene with Suniel Shetty was unforgettable. He even met me and my sister Ashvithi. This journey has been an amazing first experience, and I am excited that the film will also reach Kannada audiences." Advithi is now focused on growing in Tulu cinema and seeking more chances to connect with audiences.

affected by the popular myth about the Mesopotamian hero Gilgamesh and his travels to the underworld of Irkalla. The story doesn't just offer him a refuge from the immediate cares and concerns, but also gives him space to grieve his dead parents and offers hope for their reappearance. He believes that the Tigris river will lead him to the gate of Irkalla, where he will finally find them. His older sister Sara (Lojin Star Naimal) is not given to such fancifulness and works in a local cabaret to make ends meet.

Their proxy guardian is the rough and tough 13-year-old Moody (Hussein Raad Zuwayr), who seems to have embraced and become one with the violence endemic to Baghdad. While collecting scrap and pickpocketing, he gets co-opted by the militia leader to infiltrate the demonstrations to film everything on the sly and, later, in a dangerous mission to bomb these very protesters. Ironically, unlike Chum-Chum, who remains committed to his home despite all the hardships, Moody wants to escape to the Netherlands with Chum-Chum and Sara.

The high point of the film is the argumentation between the two, with Moody talking about running away from "rubbish life" lived amid protests, gunshots, and smoke bombs, where the bread comes without meat, and it is difficult to manage something as basic as charging the mobile. Chum-Chum keeps holding on to his love for the homeland. He sees hope for the future, but Moody insists that there's nothing left for them in Baghdad anymore. "Stop dreaming. Dreamers don't make it in Baghdad," is the advice given to Chum-Chum.

This group of street-kids has little by way of adult supervision save the tough-talking Maryam, herself bearing wounds of a tragic past, who teaches them in an old, ramshackle double-decker turned into a mobile school. But they go to her not for education as much for the meals that they are provided. The bristling screenplay by Al-Daradji, Karim Traidia, Shahad Ameen, and Hasan Falih persistently holds the adults responsible for the plight of the children, the broken world that they have come to inherit without quite having a choice in the matter.

The film scores well in the recreation (production design by Chris Richmond and Ali Saad and sound by Olivier Laurent, Laurent Chassaigne, Roland Vajs, Haider Ali) of the streets of contemporary Baghdad, crumbling but refusing to die, brought to their knees but not willing to crumble as yet. It's the handheld camera of Nikzat Saed, Salam Salman, and Al-Daradji himself and the drone shots that keep the momentum going in the ghost town. The resilient children in the Iraq-Unit-

Kingdom-France-United Arab Emirates-Saudi Arabia-Qatar co-production are also like the battered and bruised but eternal city of Baghdad that they belong to, surviving against all odds. They gel well together as a group and bring out the audience's empathy, the standout being Al-Thahabi as Chum-Chum and Zuwayr as Moody.

No doubt, censuring the adults for bringing things to such a pass for the children is necessary. But as we move along in the narrative, things begin to turn predictable and over the top in their sentimentality and messaging. The shrillness clouds the profound core till a metaphoric finale takes things soaring to the realm of hope again amid desperation and destruction.

This one-line description of Mohamed Al-Daradji's Irkalla: Gilgamesh's Dream, set in modern Baghdad, hit by widespread attacks, protests, and violence, is enough to underscore the film's larger, universal resonance when it comes to many politically galvanised situations the world over, most notably in Gaza. Where a place that is sitting on the bomb itself drives its young lives to the edge.
